Pennsylvania Young Farmers Hold Convention

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.)—Doyle Paul of the Berlin-Brothesvalley Chapter of Pennsylvania Young Farmers (PYFA) was named the PYFA 1996 Honorary Young Farmer at the awards banquet during the three-day PYFA state convention at the Ramada Inn.

Paul began his career 31 years ago at the Red Lion School District, York County, after graduating in 1965 from Penn State. Three years after, he returned to his native Berlin-Brothersvalley where, for the last 28 years he has staunchly supported his community, school district and chuch by serving on innumberable committees. He is a volunteer fireman and office holder and an ambulance driver.

"I'm truly honored ... I'm speechless," he said.

"I thought I was on top of everything," he joked, adding that he wasn't sure how it was sneaked by him, but he suspected that Jon Cornish, superintendent of the Berlin-Brothersvalley School District, had a hand in it.

"My life has been truly blessed," he said, as his wife, Donna, stood by his side and 200 persons rose from their seats in a standing ovation. The Pauls are parents of three adult children.

David and Phoebe Bitler, Flectwood, Berks County, were awarded the state Outstanding Young Farmer Over 30. The state Outstanding Young Farmer Under 30 awardee was Jeffrey and Karen Zuck for Lebanon, Lebanon County.

The Bitlers belong to the PYFA's Kutztown Chapter of which Jon Stutzman is the advisor. Their only son, Jesse is aged 10.

The rolling herd average of their Vista Grande Dairy Farm's 97 head of registered Holsteins is 21,541 pounds of milk and a BAA 106.4 in type. Additionally, they have 84 replacement heifers and 37 Holstein breeding bulls and steers that are marketable to local customers.

With numerous related awards to their credit, the Bitlers actively support dairy promotion, starting at home and expanding to national advertising and sales.

The Zucks belong to PYFA's Cedar Crest Chapter, where the advisor is Richard Moore.

With their three children, they reside on a rented farm of 100 acres, to which they relocated in 1993. They began in 1989 at another rental farm, with 50 cows and 50 replacements. Since then

Crops Day Discussions On Weed Control, Nutrient Management

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County Extension on Tuesday held its annual crops and soils day program in conjunction with the last public informational meeting of proposed regulations to carry out the state's Nutrient Management Act.

The event was held at the county Farm and Home Center in Lancaster. While the program was sponsored by Penn State Extension in Lancaster, agribusinesses helped to offset the cost of lunch and refreshments, as well as having had exhibits of product displays.

The annual crops and soils day program is designed to update local farmers with information on changes in laws that affect them, to generally provide assessments on new products and services, and to provide information on techniques and skills that may help them make better decisions for crop production and environmental stewardship.

Knowledge Of Meat Quality, Markets Is 'Source Of Wealth'

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — It was a strong message presented to pork producers, many of whom are trying to deal with low or no profit margins and what some see as a dismal future in the industry:

If you continue to operate your farm on "autopilot" and simply do the tasks that need to get done, the more you will enjoy less and less of a place in the industry, according to Dr. Dennis DePietre, a nationally recognized ag economist from the University Missouri on Wednesday.

DePietre spoke to more than 100 who attended the seminar portion of the Keystone Pork Expo (formerly Pork Congress) at the Lebanon Valley Expo Center at the Lebanon Fairgrounds.

The key to survival is not simply producing pork, but rethinking your operation to produce a meat product that matches the demands for taste and quality by specific consumer markets, according to the economist.

"We live in a world which rewards knowledge," said DePietre. "Knowledge is the new wealth."

In the past four years, DePietre said he has sat at the kitchen tables of 350 farmers to see what they're experiencing. He has toured many slaughter plants and sees indications of where the industry is

NY Phil Frozen Eggs

FEBRUARY 9, 1996

Prices were generally unchanged to instances slightly lower. The market tone remained steady for small volumes, and mostly steady to occasionally barely steady for large volumes. Buyer interest increased, but attempts to negotiate lower priced sales met firm seller resistance. Floor stocks were generally adequate.

Raw material offerings were also adequate under a steady trade sentiment. Edible liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending February 3, 1996 were 10% greater than last week, and 1% less than the same week last year.

National Egg Market

FEBRUARY 14, 1996

Prices were unchanged to higher for white medium eggs in the Northeast and Midwest, and the balance of prices were unchanged. The market tone was generally steady for the large sizes, and steady to firm for mediums and smalls. Demand ranged fair to good, mostly moderate, and best where featured. Supplies were generally adequate or available for large, and mediums continued short to adequate and held with confidence. Breaking stock supplies were usually adequate under a steady to fully steady trade sentiment, and when extra eggs were sought, prices paid were often at the high side of previous price ranges. Light hen offerings remained sufficient for plant schedules.

FEBRUARY 14, 1996

Trucklot buying interest was erratic as buyers and sellers look to make the best deals to satisfy their particular situation. Offerings were fully adequate to ample on most items. Movement through retail and distributive channels was discouraging. In some instances dealers were approached to commit for sales, but opted to pass when looking at the calendar. The market tone was weak.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
FEBRUARY 14, 1996

Grain and soybean bids soared, today, as fund buying in all pits and a slight pick up in export business strengthened bids. Crop concerns and continued tightening of US and World stocks was also a supportive factor. Wheat 7 to 13 cents higher. Corn 5 to 7 cents higher. Sorghum 10 to 12 cents higher. Soybeans 9 to 14 cents higher. Active fund buying on the board and stronger corn bids pushed wheat bids sharply higher. Continued reports that US and World stocks are becoming severly depleated finally caught traders attention. Some export sales were noted but nothing substantial to report. Corn bids also moved sharply higher in re ction to fund buying and additional expor sales overnight. Soybean bids followed suit, climbing sharply higher on fund buying, stronger corn bids, and the jump in soybean meal demand. Feel More Secure

Lancaster's totally new concept in Silo Safety Ladders helps you feel more secure when climbing yourself or watching from the ground.

Details count when you're high off the ground. Now Lancaster, the most trusted name in silo equipment, presents the most advanced Silo Safety Ladder System available today.

We've built in extra knee room for easier climbing. Our ladder rungs are smooth to the hand, yet give shoes a sure grip. And our platforms feel more solid under your feet than any you've ever had before.

UNMATCHED DURABILITY

No other silo safety ladder system is built like a Lancaster. All components are solid steel. No light gauge metal here. Our hot dip galvanizing gives you rust protection typically rated for more than 45 years. Rungs are secured with stainless steel rivets. And it's all connected with heavy duty, double coated Grade 5 bolts.

A BETTER PLATFORM

You'll like the sturdier, roomier platform. It latches and unlatches with just a flick of your foot so you can keep a better hand grip. We test loaded the platform at 1500 lbs. That means added stability as you work - moving, leaning, or lifting.

FITS ANY SILO

The new Lancaster Silo Safety Ladder System fits new or used silos, stave or poured. Or you can get just the cage to fit over existing ladders.

Feel safer yourself, and more confident in the safety of your workers.

Contact your local Lancaster Level-Flo dealer today.

WILL THE IRS INHERIT YOUR ESTATE?

New York Life's Survivorship Whole Life policy was created to provide you and your spouse with life insurance coverage, and needed liquidity, when your estate taxes are due.

It works like this: When one spouse dies, the resulting estate tax can be deferred until after the death of the surviving spouse. At that time, the policy's proceeds become available, and can be used to help pay the usually heavy estate tax. In other words, New York Life makes the proceeds available when they're needed the most.

You've worked hard all of your life, and shouldn't have to spend time worrying about what will happen to your estate. Call us for all the details and let us show you why New York Life is The Company You Keep.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

SHROVE TUESDAY, FEB. 20.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, GEORGE!

George Washington was born on February 22, 1732, but we celebrate Presidents Day on February 19, five days after Abraham Lincoln's birthday on the 12th. George was one of nine presidents who never attended college and, like every president until Jimmy Carter, was born at home. Like virtually every president since, he wore glasses, at least some of the time, and his hair — even if it hadn't been powdered — was predominantly white. (Monroe and Pierce were the exceptions; they had handsome dark brown hair.) In his youth, Washington was considered romantic and emotional — and loved to dance.

"Let others praise ancient times; I am glad I was born in these." – Ovid

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ If you hope to skim the soup, don't salt it until afterward; the salt keeps the scum from rising.

VERMOUTH MEATBALLS

4 pounds lean ground beef
2 cups bread crumbs
1 cup milk
1 cup finely chopped onions
1 cup dark vermouth
2 cups catsup
1 teaspoon oregano
salt & pepper to taste

Combine first four ingredients and form into balls. Place in a shallow pan with 1/4 inch water and bake until just brown, turning balls frequently. Drain liquid. Combine remaining ingredients, pour over meatballs, and bake, covered, at 350° F for 1-1/2 hours.

Makes 12 servings (or more, as an appetizer).

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Winds from the northeaster bring storms of ice fruit (hail).
– Zuni Indians

The weather on the night of St. Peter's Day (Feb. 22) foretells the weather for the next forty days.

Special Offer
Handy chart full of interesting weather proverbs. Send $3 to Weather Chart, Dept UF, The Old Farmer's Almanac, Box 520, Dublin, NH 03444

OPINION

FFA, Agriculture, And America

National FFA Week is observed each year during the week of George Washington's birthday to recognize his leadership and commitment to American agriculture. The FFA's 444,497 members in 7,264 chapters across the United States, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands organize events and activities to foster awareness of ag education and support for FFA. This year National FFA Week is February 17-24.

We believe FFA members who lead chapter meetings may one day preside at board meetings or pioneer advances in ag science or genetics. Students who join agricultural education and FFA know they can apply what they learn in class to more than just the test: they are gaining career and leadership skills to last a lifetime. It's the hands-on experience under the dedicated supervision of agriculture teachers and parents that make the difference in the lives of these young people.

"Students are taking note," said National FFA Advisor Larry D. Case. "Over the last four years, more than 60,000 students from diverse backgrounds were attracted to the program, providing them with a strong foundation of knowledge and skills essential for success in the science, business, and technology of agriculture and life."

This year's theme, "FFA—Leadership for a Lifetime," emphasizes how FFA activities and agriculture classes help students develop the critical skills they need for a diversity of agricultural careers and beyond.

FFA is one of the good things about agriculture—and America.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Develop A Vision

It has been said there is nothing as constant as change.

This is especially true for farmers as they prepare to enter the 21st century.

Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, states successful farmers have a vision of what they want their business to be like in the future. They set specific goals for different segments of their business and share these goals with their management team.

They implement management strategies that will help them meet these goals. They monitor the progress of each segment of their business to see if it is on track with the goals they have set.

They are constantly making improvements that will enhance their competitive position in the future. Those that have no vision and fail to make necessary changes risk stagnation and death of their business.

To Become More Competitive

To stay in business in the United States, owners must constantly being looking for ways to stay competitive.

There is an old staying in business that states you are either growing or dying. The business structure of farming is changing again to meet growing demand for agricultural products. Farms must adjust to the changing food distribution system, consumer demands, and developing world markets.

To become more competitive, farmers may have to:

• Expand the size of their business and spend more time on management issues and less time on physical labor.

• Reduce the capital cost of doing business by leasing land and facilities, by hiring custom operators to do some of the work, and by sharing equipment with other farmers.

• Hold debt loads to affordable levels and have good equity and income base before taking on new debt.

• Exercise reasonable control over production costs while maintaining high levels of efficient production and improving labor efficiency.

Farmers need to sit down and think about their future in agriculture. Do you want to be the business owner and develop management skills or a farm worker employed by a farm business to perform farm production skills?

There is a bright future for both.

To Look At Corn Rootworm Control

According to Robert Anderson, extension agronomy agent, every year the corn rootworm larvae causes loss of production in some corn fields.

The larvae which feed on the roots of corn during May and June often go unnoticed until the corn plant falls over during a storm or at harvest time when corn stalks show goose necking.

The traditional approach controlling this destructive pest is to apply a soil insecticide at planting time to fields which have been in corn for more than one year or during the past growing season 1.5 or more beetles were observed per corn plant.

Usually first-year corn is not affected by this insect because the adult female beetle lays her eggs only in corn fields.

The farm press in Illinois and Indiana have reported problems with rootworm larvae feeding on corn roots following soybeans. They report that the adult beetles feed on the silks and tassels of corn, then migrate to nearby soybean fields to lay eggs.

Anderson reports that we have not observed this in Pennsylvania except for a few isolated incidents. Thus, our recommendation in Pennsylvania remains not to treat first-year corn fields with a soil insecticide to control corn rootworm larvae.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "A leader embraces change and encourages innovation."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

CALL ME "BITTER"
February 18, 1996

CALL ME "BITTER"
February 18, 1996

Background Scripture:
Ruth 1

Devotional Reading:
Psalms 199:59-72

In the past when I have read the Book of Ruth, I have been so dazzled by the loving devotion of Ruth that I have tended to overlook to depiction of Naomi. And that's unfortunate for thereis something to learn from Naomi as well as from Ruth.

The first impression is quite positive. With her husband and two sons dead, she decides to return to her home in Bethlehem and magnanimously tells her daughters-in-law, Ruth and Orpah, that it would be wise for them to return to their family homes, for she could offer nothing in Israel. She might have tried to make them feel guilty enough to go with her, but Naomi unselfishly counsels them wisely.

Ruth and Orpah weep and protest that they will go with her. Apparently there is deep love and appreciation between these three women. Obviously she was more than just a mother-in-law to them for, with the sons dead, there was no more legal binding between them.

GOOD ADVICE!

Naomi also is admirable because she provides her two daughters-in-law with sensible cousel: stay here in your own homeland with your own families for I can offer you nothing. Naomi's strange-sounding words about having no more sons to give them is a reference to Deuteronomy 25:5,6: "if a brother die and have no child, his brother shall wed the widow." Even if she remarried and conceived immediately, is would be too long for the two daughters-in-law to wait.

The second time around, Orpah heeds Naomi's wise counsel to stay in Moab, but Rtuh, whose name means "friend," knows how deeply Naomi has been wounded with the loss of her husband and two sons, so she will in fact continue as her friend.

Let's make certain we don't sell Orpah short here. There was nothing unloving or disloyal about her giving in to Naomi's advice to stay in Moab with her family. She had already pledged to accompany Naomi. But Naomi's advice was sound. She was doing the very thing that Naomi was telling her to do. She was obeying her mother-in-law.

BEYOND COMMON SENSE

But Ruth's love and lyalty go beyond common sense. Ruth demonstrates a truth that is both ancient and contemporary: Love and true friendship are not irrational, they simply go beyond reason. In fact, love can move so far beyond common sense that, as Jesus said, "greater love has no man than this that he lay down his life for his friends" (John 15:13).

So, Naomi and Ruth go to Bethlehem. And there it is that we learn something else about Naomi: she is consumed by bitterness. When her fellow townspeople ask, "Is this Naomi?" (for ten or more years have passed since they last saw her), she replies, "Do not call me Naomi, call me Mara..." (1:20). What a contract between the name she bears and the one she proposes! Naomi means "my joy" or "my pleasant one." Mara, on the other hand means "bitter." Naomi's loss of husband and sons has left her with a bitterness toward God: "...for the Almighty has dealt very bitterly with me. I went away full, and the Lord has brought me back empty."

For a time, at least, Naomi is forgetting the good years in Moab and she is overlooking to loyalty and love of Ruth. And that is how we manage to hold onto bitterness: overlooking the love and grace that God has given us. We are the ones who are poisoned when we choose to be called "bitter."

The Althouses will lead a group to the Holy Land, Oct. 9 to Nov. 2, 1996. Space limited. For information, write them at 4412 Shenandoah Ave., Dallas, TX 75205.

OK City Feeder Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK
FEBRUARY 14, 1995

Compared to Monday of last week: Feeder steers 2.00-4.00 higher. Feeder heifers 1.00-3.00 higher. Steer calves 1.00-3.00 higher. Heifer calves steady to 2.00 higher. Demand very good for feeder steers, especially heavy weight, short term, feedlot cattle. Demand moderate for feeder heifers and all calves. Quality average to attractive. Flesh conditions of feeders medium to heavy. Calves in thin to medium flesh and very desirable for buyers. Weigh-ups average to full. The latest statistics show only 9 percent of Oklahoma's wheat crop is in good condition. This is very evident with Monday's bulk supply in the 600-800 lb. range. Packer demand fair to moderate with best demand for Utility cows. Total of 350 cows and bulls sold with 75 percent going to packers. Receipts this week 13,500; last week 1,060; last year 8,354. Supply consisted of 74 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs; 26 percent calve: under 600 lbs; 3 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis. 1. Resurface. Start over, strip old paint off, expose fresh wood surface. That latest KRANZLE nozzle on pressure washers does it.
2. New No-Peel Stain. Stain thinly into that surface and further installing by brushing, brushing and brushing using the finest bristles, can't peel!
3. Spraying another thin coat of shiney barn enamel and brushing same way, just can't peel, like way back years ago. Remember?

Hatfield Announces Payment Changes

Effective Feb. 26, the double discount for hogs grading below Hatfield's base of 56% lean cuts will be eliminated. Discounts will now be valued at the same level as premiums.

In addition, to address customers' requests for a more uniform and consistent product, Hatfield will be adjusting the sort penalty for hogs significantly outside the desired weight range.

The weight categories immediately outside the desired range remain unaffected. Hatfield will continue to maintain one of the widest desired weight ranges in the industry.

These changes are viewed by Hatfield as positive steps toward providing greater returns for Hatfield's hog producers.

It Must Be Winter, Because Poultry Respiratory Concerns Abound

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Wintertime is often synonymous with respiratory concerns in flocks. Poultry producers should examine viable vaccination programs as a result, according to a poultry expert from the New Bolton Center.

Dr. Andre F. Ziegler, D.V.M. and resident in avian medicine and pathology at the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine, spoke to about 36 producers and agri-industry representatives on Monday at the Penn State-sponsored Poultry Management and Health Seminar at Kreider's Restaurant.

Through the diagnostic period November 1995 to February 1996, working with the New Bolton Center, Penn State, and Summerdale laboratories, Ziegler and other veterinarians have noticed a predictable spike in the mortality pattern of birds that are challenged by an array of respiratory and other diseases during the winter season.

However, "most companies are having minimal respiratory problems, which is good news," said Ziegler.

Ziegler reviewed several distict poultry respiratory challenges. One of them, laryngotracheitis (commonly called LT), matches the numbers of confirmed and suspected cases seen in the previous year. "It's about the same as it was last year for this period of time," said Ziegler.

But sorting the confirmed from the suspected cases proves difficult for a variety of reasons.

In confirmed cases, the laboratories have been able to isolate the virus or see the associated lesions in the birds' tracheas. In suspected cases, the labs cannot isolate the virus and make their diagnosis based on clinical signs, mortality, and so forth.

There have been three confirmed cases of LT in layers, two in broilers, and one in pullets. There have been three suspected cases in broilers and one suspected in pullets. Many of the confirmed and suspected cases are located in various regions, but mostly north and west of the city of Lancaster.

Symptoms of LT include a noticeable "gasping for air" (also called "drawback") in the birds. There's a sound similar to a moist cough and gagging. In severe cases, according to Ziegler, "you can actually see (the birds) flinging blood from the trachea."

When exposed, there are fibrinous "plugs" of material in the trachea, with bleeding throughout.

Vaccination has been used. In one case, there was a question of the efficacy of a vaccine. When the diluent was replaced with simple distilled water, the effficacy was boosted from 90 minutes to the recommended two hours.

Dr. Andre F. Ziegler, D.V.M. and resident in avian medicine and pathology at the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine, left, spoke to about 36 producers and agri-industry representatives on Monday at the Penn State-sponsored Poultry Management and Health Seminar at Kreider's Restaurant. At right is Dr. Barrett S. Cowen, associate professor of veterinary science, Penn State Wiley Laboratory.

Another disease challenge has been infectious bronchitis (IB). "Infectious bronchitis is one (dis-they've seen their herd size increased to 79 cows and 70 replacements, and a rolling herd average of 22,320 pounds of milk.

"Efficiency" is the Zucks' operative word. They double-crop as much as possible to maximize land use, and strive to boost feed efficiency while lowering handling costs. They raise corn, soybeans, alfalfa, barley and rye.

Despite the workload, the couple is active in farm organizations, dairy promotion and their church.

Glen and Linda Krall of Lebanon, Lebanon County, Region Seven, Cedar Crest Chapter, were the state winner of the Outstanding Community Service award. They have two children of young adult age.

Their own 117 acres, plus 300 rented acres, support a dairy herd of 87 head, 90 replacements and 30 dairy beef.

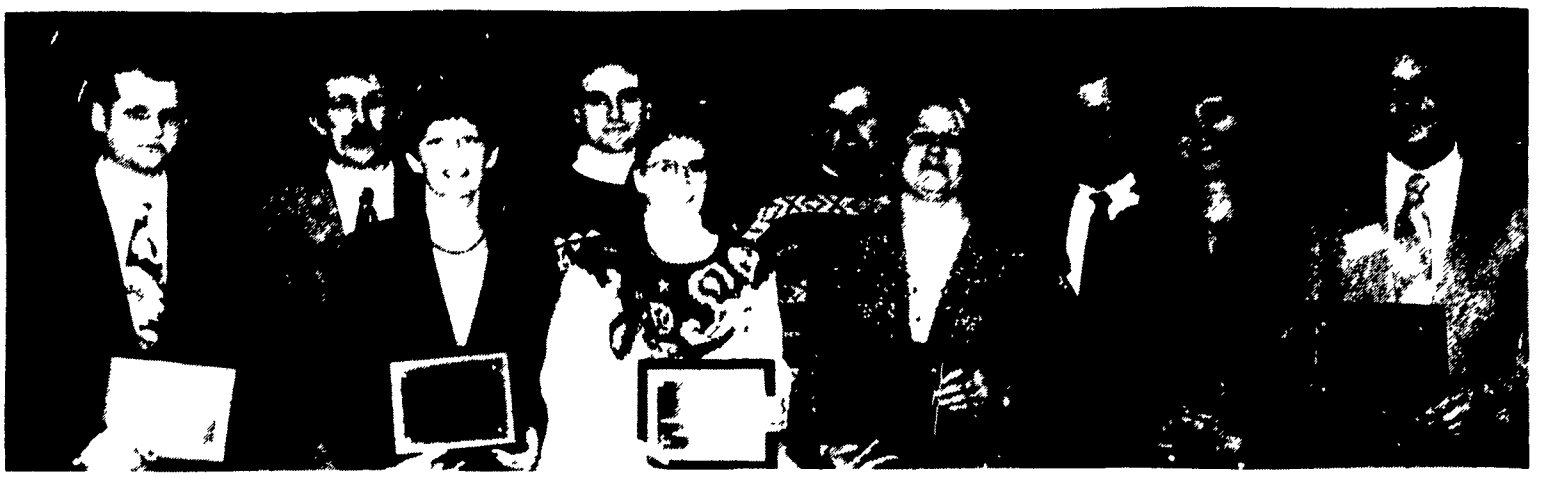
He is on the county extension board and conducts field trials: side dressing nitrogen on corn and two herbicide trials.

She serves on the local school's agricultural department advisory council, the farm women organization, the American Heart Association and the Multiple Sclerosis Association.

Together, the Kralls also work for the Lebanon Fair, the Vo-Ag advisory council, agronomy advisory council, FFA contest, Sire Power Breeder Co-op., Farm Bureau, Atlantic Dairy Co-op, Dairy Herd Improvement Association and their church.

Jon Stutzman from the Kutztown Chapter, Berks County, was named the 1995 Outstanding Advisor. The 1995 state PYFA Outstanding Chapter award went to the Berlin-Brothersvalley Chapter.

Shippensburg, with a membership increase of 210 percent outdid all the other PYFA chapters in 1995. With 218 members, Manheim leads in membership totals, while Solanco walked off with the largest number of registrants for the 1996 convention.



Award winners at the Pennsylvania Young Farmers Convention are from left, Joseph Delong, region two outstanding farmer under 30; Scott and Vickie Kreider, region two outstanding farmers over 30; Jeff and Karen Zuck, state outstanding farmers under 30; Glen and Linda Krall, state community service winners; David and Phoebe Bitler, state outstanding farmers over 30; and Dwayne Hay, region five outstanding farmer under 30.

Region Two Outstanding Young Farmer Under 30 was Joseph DeLong, Quarryville. Dwayne Hay, Berlin, took the same award in Region Five. Scott and Vickie Kreider, Quarryville, were Region Two's 1995 PYFA Outstanding Young Farmer Over 30.

Jean Krummer, Butler, won the 1996 PYFA Spokesperson Award. Dorothy Jane Paul, Berlin, came up with the best theme for the 1996 convention: "A Positive Mind Puts All Doubts Behind." Melinda Tercha, Kutztown, was recognized as a national second place winner in the essay contest.

State PYFA president Jim Stutzman, Meyersdale, Somerset County, became the past president as Garry Maurer, Somerset County became the president-elect, move up to head the association. Jeff Rohrer, Chambersburg, is the new president-elect. He had been the Region Four vice-president.

Stutzman said there were a lot of one-day registrations for the 1996 convention owing to fluctuating weather conditions. "The weather was kind of a menace both east and west," he said, about the long and unpredictable winter.

"The weather improved by Tuesday. We had one farm tour cancellation, but we had a backup," he said, expressing appreciation for the cooperation exhibited by the convention delegates.

Scheduled tours Tuesday were to Leiss Tool & Die/Jenny Products, Inc., Walker's Sugar Camp and Fleetwood Folding Trailers. Business meetings were held Wednesday followed by educational workshops in the afternoon. Thursday's tour packages were: New Lexington Fire Equipment, Hillcrest Saylor Farm and Western PA Agway Agricultural Products, or T. Rich, Inc., Hillegass Dairy Farm and Snyder of Berlin.

Stutzman said the delegates voted to host, in 1999, the National Young Farmers Educational Institute. It hasn't been held in the Keystone State since 1981, he said.

1996 Cecil County Dairy Day Set

CALVERT, Md.—The Cecil County Cooperative Extension Service would like to invite all dairy producers, agri-business and dairy service providers to the 1996 Cecil County Dairy Day sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland. The meeting will be held at the Calvert Grange Hall on February 22, 1996. The goal is to provide timely, educational, and useful information to the Dairy Producers and offer them the opportunity to ask questions and discuss dairy industry concerns.

The topics scheduled for the meeting include: "Working with your Facilities to Improve Cow Comfort and Profits" presented by Dan McFarland, Agricultural Engineer with Penn State Cooperative Extension Service. Dan McFarland has spoken nationally, and contributed to the popular publication "Dairy Herd Management" with his knowledge of 'Cow Comfort.' Another timely topic will be "Fluid Milk Futures" which will be addressed by Kevin McNew, Agricultural Marketing Specialist with the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service. Grade A fluid milk futures is a newly proposed marketing tool for the dairy producer which may take risk out of the unpredictable milk market and improve financial management if the farm bill withdraws price supports from the dairy industry.

The program will begin at 9:30 a.m. with registration and refreshments, lunch will be served by the Calvert Grange for a small fee and there will be exhibits from our local agri-business sponsors. Call the Cecil County Extension Service Office at (410) 996-5280 for additional information.

The Maryland Cooperative Extension Services programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.

ease) that tends to spike about this period," said Ziegler.

In this case, there has been a decrease in the number of IB cases since last year. In broilers, there has been six cases from November 1995-February 1996, in roasters one case, and layers one case. All are confirmed cases. Of the broilers, four of the six have been typed.

For IB, there have been 12 suspected cases. For a number of reasons, according to Ziegler, the laboratories have not been able to isolate the viruses. The reasons given have been the length of time of exposure to the flock of the virus, the incorrect sample of birds, and so so.

Of the four confirmed cases, three of them had an "untypeable" strain, and several — Mass., Conn., and Ark. types — have been ruled out. Most confirmed cases have beel Del. 072 and field strains.

The signs of IB include foamy air sacs. In many cases, the secondary infections, such as e. coli and others, create the biggest problems. Most companies are using vaccines, either a Mass. or Conn. at the hatchery, or field boosts at 14-16 days of age, "sometimes older if they're going for roasting birds," said Ziegler.

Another challenge for producers has been fowl pox. "Fowl pox is a problem we've been seeing a fair amount of in the past year," he said. "This is typically a problem with layers, birds that have been in production. Typically we see this problem after about 40 weeks or so of age."

There are two forms of fowl pox, including the cutaneous, or skin form, and the diphtheritic, or wet form.

In the skin form, there are evident scabs or crusts on the comb, wattles, and face of the birds. In the wet form, there is material in the mouth of the birds, usually in the trachea or the esophagus as well.

In the past year, New Bolton has diagnosed 18 cases of pox in layers. Both the skin and wet form of the disease have been seen and producers can have both in the same flock.

Clinical signs and lesions are "typical," said Ziegler. They include nodules above the eyes of the birds, "probably the beginning of problems," he said. A more moderate case would include raised, proliferative nodules on the wattles, face, and comb as well, which can get significantly worse. Nodules can also appear in feathered areas as well.

Diagnosis can often been confusing because of the similarity with tracheitis. A histopathological evaluation is required.

Various vaccines can be used to battle fowl pox. There are four different types — a fowl pox vaccine, a combination fowl and pigeon pox, a quail pox (used by North Carolina turkey growers), and a canary pox (used by turkey growers).

New Bolton is working on a research project with a grower to evaluate the way the fowl pox virus gets into the bird and what it does when it's inside. They are seeing if the same virus can be used to infect the combs as it can the trachea. They're looking at the DNA of the tissue isolates. They're also evaluating the company's vaccine procedures to "establish for the company what the best vaccine protocol and protection is (for the birds)," said Ziegler.

Several common tumor virus diseases are under research at New Bolton. One of those is lymphoid leukosis, tumors that appear in the liver, spleen, and kideys, but no enlarged nerves. Also Marek's Disease is under investigation, similar to lymphoid leukosis, but with the nerve involvement. A sign of Marek's Disease, which affects broilers, is a raised "plaque" on the surface of the skin on birds. Also, there is enlargement of the sciatic nerve, along with the plaque and nodules on the skin. One type of infection is called "grey eye," with tumors creating a white appearance in the iris of the bird.

Another tumor disease is reticuloendotheliosis, which often doesn't involve visceral tumors. But researchers have been seeing some quite prominent ones. The disease resembles Marek's Disease, but there's a less common immunosuppressive form where it doesn't show up as any obvious lesions. However, birds can fall prey to other infectious, secondary diseases.

Ziegler said it is often vary difficult to properly diagnose the diseases. One method under research, but not yet available commercially, is to look at the tumor surface to evaluate the presence of that antibody.

Another disease that can challenge producers is colibacillosis, usually a secondary disease that flocks can be afflicted with as a primary pathogen. An antibiotic is available for broilers and growing turkeys, but not for layers and pullets. One can be written by prescription, with one packet of vaccine costing about $30, with a cost of $2,500 to treat about 30,000 broilers. It may be costly, but is effective, said Ziegler.

Crops Day Discussions

Speakers during the morning portion of the all-day meeting were John Yocum, manager of the Landisville Penn State Research Station, Dr. Elwood Hatley, a Penn State agronomist, and Bob Anderson, a Lancaster County extension agent.

Yocum discussed weed herbicide resistance and strategies farmers can use to avoid propogating fields of herbicide-resistant weed strains.

He also talked about new herbicides for the year, labeling changes, and difficult weeds.

Hatley discussed corn variety selection, especially selecting hybrids for silage. Basically, he said that there are some hybrid advantages for making silage, but farmers who use them most likely find they have to get used to raising the plants, as traditional eyeballing clues some farmers used to determine readiness for harvest aren't dependable with the hybrids.

Anderson announced some county winners of the state 5-acre corn club contest, though awards were originally announced during the Pennsylvania Crops Conference and reported in the Feb. 3 issue of Lancaster Farming.

Yocum said that several cropping practices can set up an ideal setting for developing herbicide resistance in weeds, and those are the ones that farmers should strive to avoid in order to prevent that from occuring in their fields.

He said that rotating chemistry and using strategic tank mixes can reduce the potential to create resistance.

Using a slide presentation he helped develop, Yocum said that a growing layman opinion is that herbicides are causing mutations in weeds and thus creating resistant strains.

That is not the case, he said. The resistance is showing up in plant species that already have the genetic potential to be resistant.

He said that the way resistance is developed, a plant that reproduces using a high number of seeds, such as most annuals, is treated with an herbicide that has a specific killing strategy.

What he meant by a specific killing strategy is that some herbicides are created to interfere with a specific metabolic function in a plant, such as blocking photosynthesis (photosynthesis is the basic function of a plant converting solar energy into stored energy).

A photosynthetic-blocking chemical would bind with a chemical in the plant integral to photosynthesis, thereby blocking photosynthesis and basically robbing the plant of its ability to make its own food.

Within the plant population there are subtle variations in some of the photosynthetic chemicals, and while the majority of plants representative of that species are affected by the herbicide, those individual plants with an inherent chemical variation that is not affected by the herbicide are the ones that survive and provide the genetic material for the next population.

What happens is that the farmer who does not change his herbicide chemistry and continues the same cropping and herbicide practices in same fields year after year, eventually will (given that the plant has the genetic variability to resist and enough time) foster an herbicide resistant strain.

The herbicide chemicals themselves aren't causing the resistance, Yocum said, that ability is already existant in the genetic pool of the plant species, it just needs a farmer to create a situation that rewards that genetic variation.

It has been the observation of some that nature fills a vacuum. Others have described it more as filling an empty niche.

When herbicides are used extensively and repeatedly in the same area against the same plants, without variation, it creates an empty niche. The plant able to resist the herbicide grows in number and can quickly take over and cause a high population of resistant plants.

The way to get the most effect out of an herbicide that works is to work it into the program so that it kills effectively one year, then allow a reprieve.

While it might sound perverse, the idea is to not destroy the parent weed stock that is susceptible to the herbicide. If the susceptible parent stock is all killed off, then only the resistant stock is left to take over, and it will.

If susceptible stock is allowed to remain, it's more probable that since it is already the dominant stock, it would help suppress the resistant variation.

According to Yocum, there are severl conditions that lead to an high risk of developing resistant weed stock.

- The seed of the weed can't have a long dormancy. It can't be able to survive more than a couple seasons without germinating. If it would, then susceptible stock would mix in with the resistant stock and probably limit the expression of resistance.
- The weed must have a high susceptibility to the herbicide. Again, this kills off the susceptible, dominant variety and allows the resistant strain to populate. Also it must a high frequency of resistance. In other words, the chances of an individual weed plant carrying a trait for resistance should be more like 1:million, rather than 1:trillion.
- The herbicide must be used at the same site for a number years without change.
- The herbicide must have a long residual efficacy, meaning that it doesn't break down quickly and allow susceptible plants to survive.
- The amount of herbicide used must be high relative to the amount needed to do the job. This sounds as though farmers might be purposefully using herbicides way beyond recommended levels, but frequently when using an herbicide to kill a variety of susceptible weed species, a minimum rate of application needed to kill one species may actually be twice what is needed for another species.

If all the above conditions describe current farming practices, they should be changed.

Those herbicides that attack plants by interferring with several plant functions are considered better at not developing resistance, because total resistance would require selection for several different resistant traits.

By using a combination of crop rotations (not only fields, but crops with different seasonal life cycles), herbicide rotations, and care when introducing machinery into fields so as not to introduce resistant weed seed, there is good chance of not developing herbicide resistance.

Yocum said that farmers really need to pay attention to those plants that do escape and survive after being treated. Without paying attention to potentially low populations of what may be an herbicide-resistant weed, it can quickly spread and overwhelm the field before the farmer realizes he has a resistant population.

Generally Yocum said, "You don't realize resistance until about a third of the population survives."

Yocum showed a slide of a table that compared estimated years of herbicide use until weed restistance would probably occur.

The purpose of the table was to illustrate and re-emphasize the lesson that the simpler the function of an herbicide, and the more the plant species depends on the production of large amounts of seed to carry it through from season to season, the more the opportunity for resistance to develop.

The goal of the farmer then is to integrate cultural, chemical and mechanical cropping techniques to diminish the possibility of creating that scenario.

Yocum also reviewed some of the herbicide labeling changes and newly approved chemicals.

The rest of the meeting was devoted to a presentation by members of the State Conservation Commission Nutrient Management Advisory Board, staff of the SCC, and support staff from the state Department of Agriculture and the state Department of Environmental Protection.

In a public meeting held in conjunction with the Lancaster County Crops and Soils Day, Karl Brown, executive director of the State Conservation Commission, reads a question from the audience about proposed regulations to implement the state's Nutrient Management Act. Sitting on stage in the background and fielding questions are some of the members of the SCC Nutrient Management Advisory Board and officials with the departments of Environmental Protection and Agriculture.

After a presentation explaining the regulatory package proposed and recommended by the advisory board to implement the state Nutrient Management Act, staff collected questions that members of the audience wrote down on index cards about specifics of the regulations.

The meeting was the last in a series of educational public meetings the advisory board, SCC staff, PDA and DEP officials held around the state.

A series of public hearings to receive comments on the proposed regulations are about the begin. A hearing is scheduled for the Farm and Home Center for March 11.

Weed Knowledge Is Weed Control

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — If a weed can't be identified within days, perhaps hours of emerging, then determining the most efficient and least weed management program is difficult if not impossible.

While many people can identify adult specimens of weed species, that's way too late to determine what control program may be needed to prevent losses.

The solution is to become adept at identifying weeds soon after they emerge, according to Del Voight, a Penn State Extension agronomic agent for Lebanon County.

There are several reasons that justify making the effort to learn how to identify immature weeds and they all have to do with designing a professional-quality weed management program.

Seed identification can be helpful in some instances, but mostly seed knowledge only needs to be limited to a general understanding of how each weed species reproduces, the hardiness and germination of seeds.

There is no need to memorize all the weed species and life cycles, because there are good references available, but it is important to use them. The more those references are used and weeds identified, the faster and more efficient the farmer's management program can be applied.

Voight said that to start a solid, workable weed control program, farmers should scout and map their acres for weed species.

This can be done up to just before corn canopy, or during combining. Preferably, scouting and mapping should not be an isolated event, but should occur with updating on every trip to the field — if something looks different, a new plant, etc., write it done.

Also map out nearby "weed banks" — areas on or off the farm that have undesirable plants of which the seeds could be moved by wind, water or wildlife onto the cropland.

The soil itself could be a prodigious weed seed bank, and some common weed seeds remain viable in the soil for 40 years or more, which is why tilling can be a problem in some areas.

There is a technique for determining the weed seed-bank profile of a soil. Taking a measured sample of a known depth of soil, putting it into a container and adding water and a surfactant (such as a soap, which prevents the soil from adhering to the seeds), it can be estimated how much of a potential problem is in the soil already.

Identifying the seeds can show relative populations of seeds, but it shouldn't be used to plan a specific control program.

Since the emergence of weeds from soil seed is unpredictable, it is considered foolish to attempt to treat a field with a pre-emergence herbicide to control a weed suspected of being a problem based soley on the soil seed population.

However, a soil seed analysis can help determine what kinds of weeds are potentially there, which ones potentially pose a problem, and whether or not tillage will help or hurt control unwanted growth.

Voight said for example, one plant of redroot pigweed produces about 117,000 seeds. Not only does this show an opportunity of the plant to quickly spread out, but also indicates a stronger opportunity to develop herbicide resistance.

Other seeds, such as the large, heavily coated burcucumber seeds may not be as prolific, but are easily moved around by tilling, tougher to kill with pre-emergent herbicide, and can germinate at a wide variety of depths.

Further, burcucumber germinates all summer long and if tillage distributes the seeds throughout the soil depth, plants can continue to emerge even after an applied post-emergence herbicide such as atrazine has been applied and loses effectiveness.

The goal of the weed control program should be to control the wild growth of plants in a field intended for domestic plant production.

A weed control program has to take into account the types of plants (crops) intended to be grown. They also should be considered according to plant lifecycle.

For example, there are summer annuals such as corn, winter annuals such as winter wheat, and summer and winter biennials and perenials.

Each type of plant and its season of growth should be listed according to catagory.

The weeds in a field should also be identified and catagorized according to life cycle and seasonality.

For example, pokeweed is a perennial, wild mustard can be a winter annual, wild carrot is a biennial.

Voight cited two publications which are low cost and can provide Pennsylvanians with a good key to weed identification.

He said a publication available through Penn State Extension is the "Common Weed Seedlings of Michigan."

Produced by Michigan State University Extension, the 16-page key provides color photographs of 33 of the most common problem

(Turn to Page A25)

weed species in Michigan. Voight said the publication is valid here and was made available through Penn State Extension. The cost is $2.50 per copy.

Voight said every crop farmer ought to have a copy in his truck at all times.

Another publication that can help is, "Weeds of the North Central States," published by the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, College of Agriculture, Agricultural Experiment Station.

The 303-page paperback book contains a section of weed descriptions and illustrations of seeds and adult plants, and a 47-page section of weed identification keys, for $7.

Maps showing regions of weed occurance aren't valuable, since they are limited to the North Central states. Also, the lack of identification keys for newly emerged weeds limits its use as a field reference.

Another reference that every grower ought to have is the Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences Agronomy Guide, according to Voight.

Available through local extension offices for $7, the 214-page manual contains a wealth of information and reference material ranging from tables providing measurement conversions, keys for grassy and broadleaf common weeds of Pennsylvania, to tables for insect activity on certain crops, on yield reduction from weed species in corn and soybeans, information on pesticides, soil fertility, and crop nutrient removals.

According to Voight, trying to put together a weed control program without referencing the Agronomy Guide can be done if other sources are searched out and pulled together, or through paying a consultant.

Even if a consultant is used, having an Agronomy Guide can help better understand some of the reasons for some of the recommendations a consultant may give.

The Agronomy Guide also outlines effective weed control and advises, "Relying on any single tactic can lead to severe problems such as high costs and crop failure."

Voight said that depending on the minimum goal yields and the species desired, a producer has several options to consider in controlling weeds.

Cultural practices would include crop rotations, row spacing, timing of planting, etc. — in effect anything that can be done to give the intended crop an advantage over wild or unintended plants.

Such cultural practices would include such things as rotating a field out of production of a summer annual crop such as corn into production of a perennial, such as alfalfa.

The reason for this is that year-after-year production of a summer annual crop in one field also allows and promotes growth of summer annual weed species. Eventually, summer annual weed populations can become devastating to the intended crop.

The switch to a perennial hay species would allow summer annual weeds coming up to be cut and prevented from producing large amounts of seed.

Using cover crops and transitional crops in an aggressive rotation program can not only help keep weed species populations in check, but can possibly help farm income by having less field downtime and more production.

Chemical practices for weed control also need to be juggled deftly — not only because of possible damage to a crop from residue.

The reason weed identification is necessary is because most people don't know what weed problems they have until almost too late.

Herbicide and pesticide applications should be carefully strategized to achieve maximum effect for minimum effort and cost and risk.

If a pre-emergence herbicide is to be used, it should be done based on actual knowledge of historic weed population trends in a field — and that means keeping records.

Without record-keeping, of which scouting and field mapping must be a part, deciding on a pre-emergence herbicide is more of a shot in the dark and more apt to create wasted resources and effort.

However, with a good record of areas and types of weeds, diseases and insect pests, along with references and knowledge of the herbicides, insecticides and whatever fungicides, etc., that may be used, a pre-emergence plan can be developed and used that has a strong chance of succeeding well.

A field with an unknown or uncertain history of weed problems can result in needless use of a pre-emergence herbicide.

Post-emergence herbicides generally should be used before the weed plants gain much strength in development.

And along with the types of weeds upon which specific herbicides have an effect, the weed management plan has to take into account the types of crops and the susceptibility of the crop species or variety to those herbicides.

That is why identification of weed seedlings is so beneficial, Voight said. It gives the farmer a better idea of the magnitude of a problem in a field and more time to decide what to do.

It must also be considered that controlling weeds may be more of a cultural problem, even if it doesn't appear so.

This is because the spread of the weed seed, or the ability of the weed species to thrive in a field may have more to do with soil fertility, pH and drainage.

If soil conditions aren't optimal for the production of a summer annual crop, it may give the advantage to the weed species.

Understanding pefe-rential conditions for a weed species can help reduce the need for herbicide use if those soil conditions can be changed.

As a general rule of thumb on comparing crops and weeds for developing a management plan, Voight said that it is easier to control a grassy weed in a broadleaf crop than a grass crop.

This is basically because of differences in growth habit and metabolism.

Also, when develop-

National FFA Week Celebrates Leadership For Lifetime

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — FFA Members who lead chapter meetings may one day preside at board meetings. Today's agriscience students may pioneer advances in genetics tomorrow. Students who join agricultural education and FFA know they can apply what they learn in class to more than just the test: they're gaining career and leadership skills to last a lifetime.

"Students are taking note," said National FFA Adviser Larry D. Case. "Over the last four years, more than 60,000 students from diverse backgrounds were attracted to the program, providing them with a strong foundation of knowledge and skills essential for success in the science, business and technology of agriculture and life."

The FFA's 444,497 members in 7,264 chapters across the United States, Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands will organize events and activities to foster awareness of agricultural education and support for FFA during National FFA WEek, Feb. 17-24.

This year's theme, "FFA — Leadership for a Lifetime," promoted through communities nationwide, emphasizes how FFA activities and agriculture classes help students develop the critical skills they need for a diversity of agricultural careers and beyond.

Seth Derner, national FFA president from Bartlett, Neb., said today's young people are aware of their responsibilities as agricultural leaders for tomorrow. "Our members realize that FFA fosters the skills they need to succeed in life," he said. "They will be leading the effort to provide food and fiber for a growing population and to keep America competitive in the global marketplace."

National FFA Week is held each year during the week of George Washington's birthday to recognize his leadership and commitment to American agriculture.

Both the National FFA Center and the FFA National Hall of Achievement are located on part of Washington's original Mount Vernon estat near Alexandria, Va.

Design and development of the FFA Week materials are sponsored by Case Ih as a special project of the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

ing a plan, Voight said that farmers should consider several alternative plans based on different scenarios, and backup plans that take into account the variable factors that weather can provide.

Doing so should also provide the farmer with a cost comparison for different programs.

For those with suitable home computers, Penn State has a well constructed reference program call the Maize Expert System that includes a weed identification key and density estimates for potential yield loss.

Depending on the experience and computer skills of the farmer, this program can simplify and speed referencing information on weeds and herbicides, in addition to insect and disease identification and hybrid selection, specifically for corn. (It currently needs updating because of some labeling changes on pesticides and recommendations.)

To help pull some of this information together and to give farmers an opportunity to directly get answers to their questions, a weed management school has been scheduled for 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., March 13 at the Lebanon County Agricultural Center.

The cost of the school is $30 and includes publications such as "Common Weed Seedlings of Michigan" and other handouts in a three-ring binder.

Attendance at the school also qualifies for 8 catagory pesticide certification credits. (Those who spray pesticides must have proper certification, and that requires continuing education credits.)

The school is open to the first 30 registrants. Deadline for registration is March 10.

Penn State speakers are to be Dr. Bill Curan, a weed science specialist; Ed Werner and Dwgith Ligenfelter, both weed science technical assistants, and Voight.

Enterprising FFA Officer Helps 'Create A Future' For Youth

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

WESTFIELD, N.Y. — Bill Catania wants to convert his love of landscaping into a project that will show youth in the country that there is a future for them — in agriculture.

The newly installed national FFA eastern region vice president said that while a third of the nation's students are from a farm background, two-thirds don't realize how vital agriculture is to the livelihood of many.

During FFA Week, his team of national FFA officers have devoted themselves to their theme, "Create A Future." In the coming National FFA Week, they intend to reach out to today's youth, many of whom believe there is no future.

And while Catania intends to use his experiences to shape a future for himself in agricultural education, the New York state FFA president has big plans after college.

Catania, 19, grew up on his family's 30-acre grape orchard. While working for his father and grandfather, Catania took care of the Concord and Niagara grapes, helping to tie and prune them, in addition to other chores, including pulling brush. He also worked on his Westfield High School farm, a one-acre grape farm that involved work such as pounding in posts, applying herbicides and pesticides, and harvesting.

The work was hard. According to Catania, growing one acre of grapes is equivalent in labor to growing 10 acres of corn. "It keeps us really busy," he said.

"Harvesting is something I really enjoy," he said, noting that the harvest season is a "really special time of year." Harvest season lasts from Sept. 1-Oct. 15.

In the past three years, Catania has worked for a landscape company and wants to continue working there after his duties with the national FFA are complete.

In a telephone interview this week with Lancaster Farming, Catania spoke about his plans as a national FFA officer and about his future after college.

Catania noted that while many high school teachers have a three-month break during the summer, high school ag science teachers and FFA instructors must be involved in projects. One project that is alluring to the eastern region vice president involves setting up contracts between FFA members and regional firms to install landscaping.

This provides a "real world" approach so FFA members can develop sales and public relations skills that can prepare them in a vital way for what they face after school. This is accomplished through supervised agricultural experience (SAE) programs through the chapter FFAs.

"We try to educate the whole person," said Catania. "We look at how the students, once they leave the educational setting and get through college, function in society." FFA prepares a code of ethics that puts a lot of emphasis on service and integrity.

Catania's adviser is Phil Baideme.

Next week, when Catania visits Washington, he will be part of "shadowing day" when he will meet employees of USDA and work at their side to see if FFA members would enjoy a career in that aspect of agriculture. He also plans to meet with other FFA officers. Several of them will also visit many states in the Northeast in the coming weeks.

Catania is one of six national FFA officers who begin a two-week series of business and industry visits from Feb. 26 through March 8.

Catania and the officers of FFA, accompanied by representatives of the National FFA Foundation, will travel to Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, Wisconsin, and Washington, D.C.

"The best way for our national officers to learn about current issues in agribusiness and the food industry is to talk to leaders in those areas," said Larry D. Case, national FFA adviser and coordinator of agricultural and rural education, U.S. Dept. of Education, in an FFA release. "By the same token, the best way for industry leaders to learn about agricultural education and the FFA is to meet our national officers who represent our members across the nation."

The tour begins in Chicago for a meeting with Allan R. Johnson, president of Farm Progress Companies, Inc. The officers then will divide into three teams to visit a variety of FFA sponsors' businesses across the country to learn more about the agriculture industry.

Other officers participating in the business and industry tour are Seth Derner, national president from Bartlett, Neb.; Clara-Leigh Horn, southern region vice president from Ashville, Ala.; Joe Caffee, central region vice president from Geneva, Ind.; Andy McCall, western region vice president from Houston, Texas; and Cody Wagner, national secretary from Banner, Wyo.

The U.S. tour follows the national officer team's return from a recent two-week visit to Japan to provide the officers with a better understanding of international trade relations and the importance of a global marketplace to American agriculture.

The national FFA officers will take a year off from college to represent FFA members to officials in government, education, business, and agriculture. They will meet with members at the chapter, state, and national levels.

Knowledge Of Meat Quality

headed, if only producers would keep an open mind and learn tc adapt.

For years, according to the Missouri economist, farmers have been set on making those decisions which keep production up and costs down — not spending a lot of time thinking about the end product. That must now change, because consumers are becoming more specific in what they want.

And markets for those specific needs are opening, if producers would only take a look around.

"If you're producing pigs in a profitable way, what you're really pushing is knowledge about consumer tastes and preference," he said.

Lean is not necessarily what consumers want. He pointed to the failure of McDonald's to sell the McLean burger, which had much less fat than a regular burger, but consumers didn't like its taste. He said the McLean Deluxe became the "McLean Defunct."

Producers can be rewarded for their specific knowledge basis and can produce pork profitably not just for leanness, but for color, taste, water-holding capacity, palatability, shelf life, and safety.

All those factors must be worked into a process that not only provides what consumers want, but that can keep the price reasonable and profitable for producers.

DePietre also spent time attacking the myths that "big producers" are killing the smaller producers. The economist indicated that simply isn't true. He presented the hog industry structure figures from 1994 which showed there are 120,433 farm operations in the country that have under 1,000 hogs (some of which usually raise hogs for 4-H and showing purposes and make up 17.4 percent of the total producers in the country) and there are 15,188 producers that have less than 2,000 hogs total (also 17.4 percent of producers). Those who have under 50,000 hogs in inventory (but at least 10,000) make up only 12.5 percent of the total, at 1,108 operations in the country.

Soon, the USDA intends to note that even if a producer has one hog to show at a local fair, that consitutes a "farm." As soon as that hog has sold, "the USDA believes they lost another hog farm."

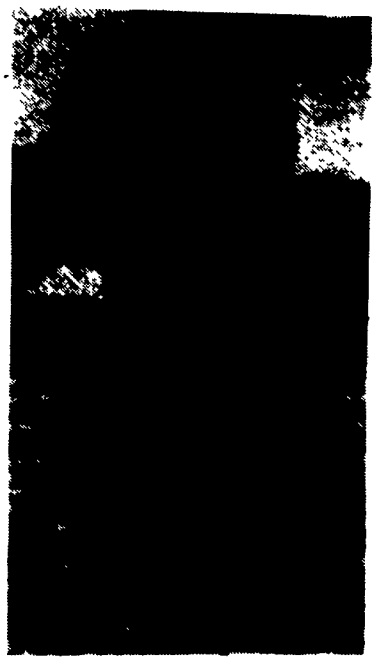
The very large farms, totalling 50,000 or more hogs in inventory (according to USDA figures), make up 17 percent of the total, up from 9 percent in 1991.

The industry situation is "not as simple as big operations drowning out smaller operations" but rather a mood that is generated by hearsay and rumors.

Also, a large packing company simply making "plans" to begin new facilities often doesn't realize the tremendous costs involved, and many of those plans are never realized in the end.

Like other economists, DePietre believes that producers can often be self-fulfilling prophecies and actually take measures to ensure that, believing the industry is turning sour, their businesses eventually fail. And ag lenders often hear this pessimism and also make decisions accordingly.

For those who are thinking of expansion, he quickly reviewed the technical and financial aspects of the decision. The technical aspects include a sufficient water supply, nutrient management considerations, biosecurity issues, site issues (being next to a development, etc.), and adequate markets.



Jason Manbeck is the new state pork industry representative.

Financial considerations include having enough working capital ("the key issue for the next five years," said DePietre), savings, knowing the margins, and keeping a careful eye on the debt structure. Also, sufficient equity to ensure the successful operation of the business is necessary.

DePietre warned producers not to develop "a false sense of security that you can go on auto pilot and survive in the industry," he said. Instead, producers can take steps now to learn how to bypass the "current pork chain and go directly to the consumer," DePietre said. "If you become knowledge-based and then flexible, you can dc much better than you can do on the average."

He told the producers that "niche markets" can be established because of the close proximity of the East Coast markets, and reminded them that a shift to a more "consumer-oriented" basis of operation is necessary.

"We're often more unwilling to change than unable to change," he said.

Pork Quality Check

For producers who want to make the change to consumer taste and preference, it is best to become more knowledgeable about the pitfalls of producing good pork, according to Dr. Riette L.J.M. Van Laack, meat scientist at the University of Tennessee Institute of Agriculture.

Van Laack spoke about the realities of meat quality during the seminar portion of the Pork Expo.

Because of the problems with pale, soft, exudative (PSE) pork, offcolor pork, and dark, firm, and dry (DFD) meat and the many carcass inconsistencies, it's costing the industry $50 million per year, she noted.

There are several categories of overall pork quality. The best quality is red, firm, and nonexudative (RFN) pork, but red, soft, exudative (RSE) meat is a new category that makes up perhaps as high as 20 percent of the incidences of returns.

"RSE is a bigger problem than PSE," said Van Laack. "But it's difficult to obtain a measurement." With DFD meat, probably the worst of the categories, the pH is not really low (about 6.8) but it can't hold much water or more protein.

Van Laack indicated it is important for the industry to rid the "stress gene" from the makeup of animals, which would have a direct, positive effect on overall meat and carcass quality. "We have to get rid of the gene completely if we want to get rid of variation in quality," she said.

In meat quality evaluations, scientists have isolated a specific, "delicious" gene. It is called the Rendement Napule (RN) gene. More work is needed on how to identify that gene in certain breed lines.

Also, external factors affect pork quality, including environmental stresses such as feeding before exporting, noise, crowding, high temperatures, prodding, and improper stunning. Work is being done to change the genetics of breed lines to reduce the impact of environmental stresses, in addition to inherent susceptibility to problems associated with the porcine stress syndrome (PSS) gene.

Van Laack told producers it was important not to sacrifice eating quality for leanness. "There is often too much focus on carcass production for leanness and not enough on meat quality," she said.

Packers could have the technology in years to come to, at the line, measure meat qualities such as color, water holding capacity, pH, electrical factors, and others important to taste and palatability.

Genetic Evaluation

Dr. Earl Dotson, vice president for producer education at the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC), provided a summary of the National Genetic Evaluation Program sponsored by the NPPC.

Data from 40 producer quality evaluation tests, nine sire lines, and 3,261 hogs in the study evaluated swine for certain traits. Dotson noted that the attempt was not to evaluate the "best breed" but to see some of the inherent strengths and weaknesses among breed lines.

For overall meat quality traits, the Duroc and Newsham lines within the breeds provided good growth characteristics. For carcass traits, the Danbred (Hampshire/Duroc), Hampshire, and Newsham lines within the breeds worked well.

Meat quality traits were inherently good with the Berkshire, SPF Duroc, and Danbred lines within the breeds. For best loin eating quality, the Berkshire, Duroc, and Danbred lines within the breeds came out on top in the survey.

The most difficult and controversial part of the survey was the economic indexing portion, which tried to decide based on production perimeters what lines within breeds were worth. "But it's not a simple solution," said Dotson.

Producers must pick those characteristics of the breed lines which will fit their overall marketing plan. One of those can be developing niche markets, such as Japan, which wants high marbling scores and high flavor (producers then should use the Berkshire breed lines). But other markets want better lean, so producers need to use other breed line or line combinations.

It's important for producers to get the information on slaughter figures back from the packers.

"You must know what you're shooting for and aim for it," he said.

Market Outlook

While producers continue to weather the market of up and down prices for hogs, one thing will not change in the forecast: 1996 will be a banner year for grain producers and a bloodbath for meat producers.

"We're just producing too much meat, and we can't sell it on the American market," said Lou Moore, ag economist from Penn State.

Moore told the producers that there is some good news about the export business for pork, however. Ag exports were at a record $53 billion in 1995. Moore said export numbers should be even higher than 1995 as imports slide.

"Exports are higher than imports for the first time since World War II," said the ag economist.

With a rise in land values, people are having more faith in the future of agriculture.

But big questions remain. The Farm Bill is slow to pass, and if it finally does, "it might be the last one we ever pass," said Moore.

Problem is, use of corn is at record levels, now 9.5 billion bushels per year across the U.S., which means record low inventories could be in store in September. Projected for Sept. 1, this year is a carryover of only 457 million bushels of corn, which could be projected even lower next month.

"We are becoming very, very dependent on a big corn crop in 1996," said Moore.

Carryovers will measure only 7.4 percent of use, a record low. This means a cutback in use will be necessary — yet, so far, feed use continues at a very high pace.

For corn to become low — at $2.25 per bushel — the country would have to produce more than 10 billion bushels this year, according to the economist.

So it could be a banner year for grain producers, and for poultry producers, with production to increase about 6 percent. But pork production is projected to increase only 1 percent. Beef will be up 3 percent.

Youth In Spotlight At Pork Expo

ANDY ANDREWS

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Nearly 12 years ago, 20 year-old Jason David Manbeck remembers the farm converting from dairy to swine.

For the Manbeck family, that was a critical, far-reaching decision, as the honors and awards attest. Over the years, Jason has won a plethora of grand and reserve champion banners for the hogs he helps raise on the family farm.

Jason, son of Oscar and Sandra Manbeck, Bethel, can set aside the trophies for a while — not to mention grinding feed for the 900 sows and many market hogs — and begin the next level in his career in swine: serving as Keystone Pork Ambassador.

Jason was selected Wednesday during the annual Keystone Pork Expo at the Lebanon Fairgrounds to represent the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council (PPPC) at the World Pork Expo in Des Moines, Iowa, the second week of July. He also will be attending various PPPC-sponsored events throughout the year.

Jason has served on the Tulpehocken FFA as chaplain and vice president and was involved in a variety of activities. He has shown champions at the Reading and Kutztown fairs and at the Berks County 4-H roundups. In addition, Jason has shown hogs at the Pennsylvania Farm Show from 1986-1994.

Jason works on his family's 900-sow farrow-to-finish operation north of Bethel. He also breeds a few purebred Durocs and Yorkshire hogs. Jason sells pigs to local 4-H'ers and FFA students for local swine shows.

Future plans for Jason include "building a boar stud in Pennsylvania" or operating a farrow-to-finish farm.

At the Expo, the junior public speaking contest winners were announced. They are seniors, Heather Lehman, 19, Mechanicsburg; intermediates, Jeremiah George, 15, Dayton; and juniors, Lindsay Martz, 13, Dalmatia.

Indiana FFA won big at the Keystone Pork Bowl, capturing the title after being tied 50-50 at the half with Lebanon 4-H in the final round. The final score, closing with the last question, was Indiana FFA 160, Lebanon 4-H 145.

Third place went to Newport FFA, at 125.

April 13 were projected at $41.45, with a cash price of $35. Feb. 9, 1996, prices were at $47.45 at $47.50 cash.

For hogs sold in December last year, price to cover feed and feeders was $32.35 per head. All costs were $45.75 per head, leaving a net margin of -$2.02. April, 1996, hogs are projected at $34.60, for a net margin of -$3.25.

Total consumption of pork in 1996 is projected at 52.9 pounds (retail weight) per person. In the year 2000, projected consumption per person of pork will be 49.1 pounds.

Phase, Spit Sex Feeding

Dr. Robert Goodband, swine specialist from Kansas State University, spoke about the positive influences a starter diet has in getting improved rate of gain.

Goodband indicated there are measurable and consistent savings in using the proper protein and other feed levels during certain times in the production cycle and according to breed requirements.

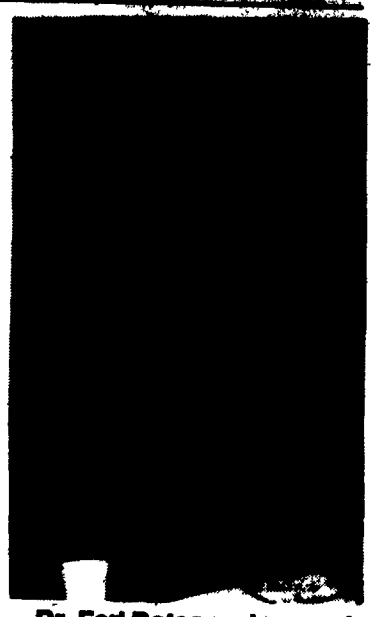
Genetics will determine how and what type of feed will be needed at what time to get the best rate of gain and inherent cost savings.

Producers can put to use information on precision feeding and, through feed budgeting, can provide the right amount of feed, especially early on and in late finishing.

Also, improvements in rate of gain can be obtained by grinding corn to the right size, preferably about 700 microns.

Dr. Riette L.J.M. Van Laack, meat scientist at the University of Tennessee Institute of Agriculture, spoke about the realities of meat quality during the seminar portion of the Pork Expo.

If you continue to operate your farm on "autopilot" and simply do the tasks that need to get done, the more you will enjoy less and less of a place in the industry, according to Dr. Dennis DePietre, a nationally recognized ag economist from the University Missouri on Wednesday.



Dr. Earl Dotson, vice president for producer education at the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC), provided a summary of the National Genetic Evaluation Program sponsored by the NPPC.

Spring Livestock Judging Contest Set

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Penn State Block and Bridle Club has scheduled the Annual Spring Livestock Judging Contest on Saturday, March 23 at Penn State's Ag Arena.

Each team will consist of four members with all four scores contributing to the total team score. Contestants in the advanced division will be required to give three sets of oral reasons, and this division is intended for contestants who have given reasons previously in practice or contest situations.

Contestants in the beginner division will not give any reasons; however, a thorough discussion of each class will be conducted in the afternoon to provide beginners with a greater educational experience.

An organization may enter as many teams and individuals as they desire. Any individuals not registered on a team may compete and will be eligible for individual awards. Plaques will be given to the top junior beginner and advanced individuals and to the top team of each division. The winning advance team is invited to attend the Little International Banquet on April 13 as guests of the Penn State Block and Bridle Club.

Six classes will be judged. There will be two cattle classes, two swine classes, and two sheep classes. This year we may incorporate data on any of the classes and reasons may be taken on performance classes.

Contestants will be divided into groups, and each group will have 12 minutes to judge each class. There will be no talking during the contest and participants will not be permitted to use judging materials.

Contestants caught talking during the judging and oral reasons sessions will be eliminated from the contest. A lunch will be served to all contestants at the Ag Arena.

The schedule is as follows:

8:30	-9:30 a.m.	-Registration
9:30	-12:00 p.m.	(please be here promptly at 8:30 a.m.)
9:30	-12:00 p.m.	-Judging

A non-refundable registration fee of $4 per contestant must be enclosed with the entry form to ensure an adequate number of lunches. Chaperones will not have to pay for lunch, but registration fees will be $5 per contestant after March 3.

Kuhn Acquires Nodet-Gougis

VERNON, N.Y. — KUHN S.A., located in Saverne, France, has taken over the Nodet-Gougis company located in Montereau, near Paris, France. Kuhn S.A. is the parent company of Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc., headquartered in Vernon, N.Y.

The Kuhn company, which was founded in 1828, employs 1,000 people and is world-renowed for its know-how in the design, production, and marketing of hay-making and cultivation equipment. Kuhn products are sold worldwide, on all five continents. In addition, Kuhn operates its own marketing subsidiaries in the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, Australia, Germany and Italy.

Nodet-Gougis is a leading French manufacturer of seeding and spraying equipment. Its product lines are a logical addition to Kuhn's product range. Kuhn's purchase of the Nodet-Gougis company is a natural extension of the industrial development of the Kuhn group, which includes two other leading farm equipment manufacturers: the Huard company, producing a full line of plows, and the Audureau company, producing silage handlers and feeder-mixer machines.

The newly formed Kuhn-Nodet division, created on Feb. 1, reinforces Kuhn S.A.'s position as a manufacturer of hay-making and cultivation equipment. Its headquarters are located in Montereau, France.

Fruit School To Cover Apple Growth Regulators

BIGLERVILLE (Adams Co.) — As we enter the information age, fruit growers are going to need knowledge and information to stay competitive and successful in today's difficult business world.

An in-depth Apple Plant Growth Regulator (PGR) School will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Biglerville, on March 8. The program will run from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. with registration starting at 8 a.m.

Plant growth regulators can be used to regulate or modify a whole host of vegetative and fruit growth factors. Information on the following topics will be given: thinning programs, tree growth manipulation, and fruit quality factors. A new stop-drop chemical, AVG, may be labeled in 1997.

Plant growth regulator applications and actions are strikingly different from other air-blast applications normally made in apple orchards. Pest control sprays are normally designed to make a thorough application to the entire tree canopy. The resulting uniform deposit on the leaves and fruit then can give good pest control. A few pesticides are systemic in nature meaning that they need to enter the plant to move around and to be effective.

Plant growth regulators must also enter the plant to be effective. The environmental conditions prior to the application influence the plant surfaces and thereby affect the ability of the plant to take up the chemical. The environmental conditions at the time of application influence the speed of drying which can markedly alter the amount of chemical absorption. Finally, the environmental conditions after the application influence the physiological status of the plant thereby dramatically impacting the final effect of the chemical.

The six experts expected to highlight the program are Dr. Duane Greene, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass.; Dr. Dick Unrath, North Carolina State University, Asheville, N.C.; Mr. Charlie Embree, Ag Canada Research Station, Kentville, Nova Scotia; Dr. Ross Byers, Virginia Tech, Fruit Research Lab., Winchester, Va.; Dr. Steve Miller, USDA Appalachian Fruit Research Station, Kearneysville, W. Va.; and Dr. George Greene, PSU Fruit Research and Extension Center, Biglerville, Pa.

If you have any questions about the school, contact Bill Kleiner at the Adams County Cooperative Extension Office, (717) 334-6271.

Musselman Leaves Farmland Trust

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

The person who is credited as the driving force behind Lancaster County's farmland preservation movement is resigning as executive director to form his own land and community consulting service. Alan R. Musselman resigned his position with The Lancaster Farmland Trust at a meeting of the board of trustees last week.

Musselman told Lancaster Farming he has had some entrepreneurial aspirations for some time, and with the private, non-profit trust's recent successful fund drive that raised $160,000, this was a good time to leave the organization in a strong position. He said the Trust will also soon announce a multi-year grant that will help it continue its work.

Musselman grew up on a farm in Maryland and spent five years as executive director of the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation before coming to Lancaster in 1983 to be the first administrator of the county's Agricultural Preserve Board. He served in that position for five years before becoming the head of the trust that now has 2,300 members in 50 states and a national reputation as an effective land trust.

In other Pennsylvania farmland preservation news, U.S. Senator Rick Santorum (R-PA), a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said this week that he helped secure funding for Pennsylvania farms in the 1996 Farm Bill. The funding is channeled through a provision of the Farm Bill, based on Pennsylvania's Farmland Preservation Act which preserves and protects prime agriculture land from future development.

"It is absolutely a priority for the state of Pennsylvania to receive the funding necessary to preserve critical farm land from future land development," Santorum said in a news release. "This provision in the Farm Bill is truly a cooperative venture between the agriclture community, federal and state governments, and the citizens of the United States. It allows the federal government to become a partner with the states to preserve important farmland...".

Pennsylvania has already invested $135 million among the Commonwealth and 37 counties to permanently preserve almost 64,000 acres of prime ag land. Santorum said federal dollars can contribute significantly to the annual program, providing a better investment for the future of agriculture.

Musselman said he was staying in Lancaster and would be available to help the organization in whatever way he could.

"My departure occurs at a time of wonderful success for Lancaster Farmland Trust," Musselman said in a prepared statement. "It has preserved more than 60 farms. It has played an important role in defending the countryside and has developed tremendous, and still growing, grassroots and financial support."

"I leave the Trust with excellent prospects for future success. The board of trustees is composed of dedicated community leaders. The membership is strong and the staff competent. I have pledged my future support for the organization in whatever way I can help."

Musselman's resignation is effective in April. The board has begun a national search for a new executive director.

Dairy Nutrition Workshops Set

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Several weeks ago we sent you a brochure about the 1996 Dairy Nutrition Worshops on Feb. 22 and 29. In Lehigh County, the workshop site will be Room 108 at the Lehigh County Ag Center in Allentown.

This year's workshop will focus on technical aspects of silage quality, effective fiber, and concentrate feeding along with management practices tdo help producers succeed in maximizing production and animal health. It will combine short lectures, discussions, and hands-on activities along with interaction among Penn State specialists.

Producers will be able to expand and update their knowledge on silage quality and how to prevent and handle specifics pertaining to concentrate feeding and how to manage and monitor key areas to improve animal production and health.

Producers also will be using information from their own farm operations to evaluate these various concepts. All participants are encouraged to bring their milking cow silages on Feb. 22 for use in the various activities. On Feb. 29, participants should bring in forage analysis reports on all milking cow forages.

Each day will start at 9:45 a.m. and end at 3 p.m. with a half hour for lunch. (Either bring a bag lunch or plan to buy lunch at nearby fast food restaurants.) Each session will feature alternating segments of video presentations via satellite, exercises, and discussions on nutrition-related topics, and interaction with the specialists answering questions. These workshops are intended for any producer trying to improve upon silage quality, forage quality and feeding management.

There is a registration fee of $30 per farm. Make your check payable to Lehigh County Extension Special Account by Tuesday, Feb. 20.

Pa. Holstein Convention Set

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Holstein Association is ready for its state convention scheduled for Feb. 22-24 at the Genetti Hotel in Williamsport.

While a complete itenerary, schedule of events and registration forms have been publicized for several months, the association announced several additional details this week.

The convention is to get started 1 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 22 with a presentation by Ralph DeVillars, an avid milk bottle collector who have part of his collection on display. The theme of his presentation is, "The history of milk through the eyes of a milk bottle."

He is to explain the history and background on how milk bottles developed and changed over the years.

Beginning at 2 p.m. there is to be a roundtable discussion on dairy marketing, policies, issues and challenges.

Bob Yonkers, a Penn State University dairy economist, is to moderate the discussion. Included on the panel are to be a dairy economist and two dairymen who work with dairy marketing and policy.

The roundtable will offer an opportunity for questions from the audience and hopefully everyone will learn more about the economics of milk pricing.

Miss Pennsylvania Linette Mertz is to be a banquet speaker with the convention banquet set for 7 p.m., Friday, Feb. 23.

The daughter of Raelyn and John Mertz, Linette is a 1993 cum laude graduate of Kutztown University who grew up on a farm, and she plans to return to school after serving a year as Miss Pennsylvania. She has already made a number of appearances, such as at the junior livestock sale of the state Farm Show.

Door prizes have been announced. Items donated by the clubs of the Central District serving as convention host include a Longenberger basket with Pennsylvania dairy products from Snyder County; a custom slate portrait from Lycoming County; a piece of Fraktur art from Union County; a full-sized handmade quilt from Centre County; ceremic cow clock from Northumberland and Montour counties; a painted milk can from Huntingdon County; an art print by Bonnie Mohr print from Juniata County; a painting by Daphne Marthouse from Mifflin County.

Further, the agenda for the 83rd annual meeting has been set.

After a call to order by president Laszlo Mozes, commercial exhibitors are to be introduced, followed by the reading of the minutes of the 1995 annual meeting.

Next is the president's address, a treasure's report, the report of the Executive Director William Nichol, and then a report of the elections of the Executive Committee.

Recognitions follow next, with discussions that otherwise would have been brought up at the Holstein USA Winter Forums, which were cancelled because it was decided that more members could participate in discussions if they were held at kitchen table meetings or in conjunction with state conventions.

Resolutions are to be considered after that, lead by Thomas Kelly, chairman.

New business is to be considered next, followed by the intallation of new state officers.

For more information, call the PHA at (814) 234-0364.

Dairylea To Hold Informational Meetings

SYRACUSE, N.Y.—Dairylea Cooperative Inc. will be conducting a series of informational meetings for milk producers throughout New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Vermont. Dairylea President Clyde Rutherford and Chief Executive Officer Rick Smith will be on hand at all of the meetings to discuss the state of the dairy industry, as well as answer questions and address concerns.

The meetings are open to everyone and are part of Dairylea's educational endeavors under provisions of Federal marketing Order No. 2. "Sharing important, accurate information benefits everyone involved in the dairy industry," said Rutherford. Topics to be addressed include the Farm Bill, international opportunities for dairy, milk pricing and industry news. An update on Dairylea's progress and activities also will be provided.

"There has been a tremendous amount of activity and change occurring at an unprecedented pace that has affected dairy farmers and our industry," said Rutherford. "We know that our members and other dairy farmers throughout the Northeast have many concerns as they operate their dairies in this challenging environment." According to Rutherford, these educational meetings provide a valuable medium for good information and communication.

CHORE-TIME ...nobody knows more about feeding

The Right Choice in broiler feeders

Feed broilers and pullets your way! As the world leader in poultry feeding systems, Chore-Time offers you the best choices in feeders. You will love what our newest feeders —the Model C2™ and Model H2™—do for you.

Features include (1) labor-saving Patented Feed Windows that open to let chicks eat from day one—without additional feed on paper or "lids", (2) feed-saving features like easy feed adjustment settings, and (3) cost-saving all-plastic designs with Chore-Time Warranty.

Pick a Chore-Time feeding system—including our rugged feed bins and Genuine Chore-Time FLEX-AUGER® Feed Delivery System, plus ventilation—and you know you've made the Right Choice—because it's from Chore-Time, the leader!

CHORE-TIME EQUIPMENT
Milford, Indiana

New Shape
The difference is the shape of the feeder's trough (at right). ULTRAFLO II's higher trough lip reduces feed waste by keeping it in the trough and not on the floor or in the pit.

The Right Choice in cage feeders

Chore-Time's popular ULTRAFLO® Cage Feeding System is now even more outstanding! We've developed and tested the second generation of ULTRAFLO feeders and named it the ULTRAFLO® II.

ULTRAFLO II offers you even greater reliability, durability, and outstanding feed-saving performance—up to 1 gram of feed per bird per day—over the original ULTRAFLO. And even the original ULTRAFLO was beating our competitors in feed savings!

So, join the cage feeding leader. Contact us today. Find out how Chore-Time and ULTRAFLO II can help you be a leader, too!

Ag Exporting Seminar Set

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — With the signing of new trade agreements such as NAFTA and GATT, agricultural producers and processors are increasing markets and their profitability through international trade. Many producers are also exploring the Internet as an educational tool and a method of expanding markets around the world.

An Agricultural Exporting Information Seminar will be held on Feb. 22 at the Southern Market Center from noon to 4:30 p.m. The seminar is being jointly coordinated by The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry, the Economic Development Company of Lancaster County, and the Kutztown University Small Business Development Center.

The seminar, which includes lunch, will highlight existing agricultural international trade resources available at the federal, regional, state, and local level. There will also be a presentation on agriculture on the Internet. Valerie Dowles, marketing specialist for the USDA Foreign Agricultural Service, will cover federal resources. Ronald Gaskill, executive director of the Eastern United States Agriculture and Food Export Council, will discuss regional programs.

Peter Witmer, chief of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture Domestic and International Trade Division, will present the state's resources and Tina, Weyant, manager of the Kutztown University Regional International Trade Center, will highlight local programs.

The cost of the event is $20 per person for Lancaster Chamber members and $30 for non-members and includes lunch and resource materials. The deadline for registration is Tuesday, Feb. 20. For more information, contact Jim Shirk at the Lancaster Chamber, (717) 397-3531.

Former Dairy Princess Now DHIA Technician

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—Cheri Slater, former Mercer County dairy princess, said she enjoys being employed by Pa. DHIA and helping dairymen better manage their dairy operations.

Cheri is quick to point-out that she enjoys making her own schedule which allows her the freedom to complete her tasks and still have time to spend with her husband Bruce, and her daughter, Sarah.

Cheri Slater, a former dairy princess, is now a Pa.DHIA technician serving members in Mercer County.

Cheri is currently responsible for serving approximately 32 member herds in Mercer County which consists of 2,500 cows. Each member has the opportunity to receive any or all of the options available at Pa. DHIA. Currently milk urea nitrogen testing and performance economics are two of the newest options that are available. Milk urea nitrogen is available for only 15 cents per cow while performance economics can be obtained at no extra charge.

Also available at no extra charge are Westfalia Dairy Plan reports on test day. This program allows the dairyman to request virtually any report which can be tailor-made to his liking.

Having graduated from Lakeview High School in 1988 and the Mercer County Vo Tech Cosmetology School in 1989 and having the opportunity to participate in the 4-H dairy and equestrian clubs has prepared her for the opportunities later in life.

At Pa. DHIA we salute Cheri for her commitment to the dairy industry and invite any dairyman who is not currently on test to call the main office at 1-800-344-8378 to learn more about the testing programs available.

I would like to thank all of the farmers for your support and faith in our tobacco auction. We all believe now that two auctions are needed in Lancaster Co. Tobacco marketing is a very competitive business and Kirkwood Tobacco Auction has made a positive impact on tobacco prices since our first sale.

I would like to urge all 609 tobacco farmers to stick to the auction system. The buyers will support the auction and the competition between buyers will bring you higher prices.

For any of our farmers that missed the final sale, we will be receiving tobacco on Tuesday, Feb. 27 from 8 am - 4 pm. I will be in contact with tobacco companies and find a sale for your tobacco. We look forward to seeing each of you in the Fall. Good Luck with your 609 crops in the coming months. Thanks again for supporting Kirkwood Tobacco Auction.

B.U.C.S. OWNER'S REPORT #57

The Word Is Out!

(BOTTOM UNLOADING CONVERSION SYSTEM) is making big news!

Reports are coming in from B.U.C.S. owners everywhere. And they're reporting that their systems are delivering increased storage capacity, higher quality feed, faster unloading and reduced maintenance versus their old systems. Even in silos that had been retired! But don't take our word for it. Here's what your neighbor has to say about their B.U.C.S. System!

OWNER'S REPORT #57

"After using our B.U.C S. for one year, we like the way it has worked overall There are no doors to change, and little operating cost We did away with the high maintenance costs and slow discharge rate of the old bottom unloader. B U C S discharges feed a lot faster"

SPEAKERS

Robert Anderson, Extension Agent, Lancaster

Victor S. Cortese, DVM, Dipto, ABVP Managing Technical Services Veterinarian, Pfizer, Inc. He is well known for his expertise in immunology and for his ability to explain this technical topic in terms that people can understand.

Gordon Jones, DVM, Wisconsin His veterinary clinic has been very successful in working with a lot of very productive herds in Wisconsin, helping them to improve herd profits significantly. The herds they work with are very similar to the type of farms in Lancaster County, a lot of small herds in tie stall barns and some larger freestall-parlor operators. A lot of their farmers are interested in expanding herd size and have done so at affordable notes with efficient, low cost, walk thru flat parlors and free stalls.

Brian Reed, DVM, Agricultural Veterinary Associates, Manheim, PA He is interested in production medicine, educating farmers and helping them develop and implement herd health programs that boost farm profits by preventing problems and production losses.

Maybe it could be considered a form of claustrophobia.

But about this time of year, I begin to feel the confines of winter. Even though we spend many hours outside each day, tending to the cattle chores, there's a yearning to throw wide the doors, to push up the windows, to let the outside ... indisde. Which would be a really dumb thing to do when we're feeding the woodstove and the temperature on the outside is several dozen degrees lower than that on the inside.

How did our pioneer mothers, those brave souls who homesteaded West with their families across the prairie, and lived in windowless sod shelters, ever stand it? I've read historic accounts of such lives and those occassional women who simply went mad under the stresses, deprivation and loneliness—and little wonder.

Maybe a simple window could have helped. They certainly are a spirit-booster during the long stretches of dark, dreary, gray-days like we've had this winter.

From our north windows, we can see the houses of long-time neighbors who live on the ridge above our hillside of contoured fields. By noting the traffic on the busy country road that serves them we can "read" some of the neighborhood happenings—school buses or highway trucks, the occassional emergency vehicle. Or neighbor Randy Keeney's repeated passages with his tractor and plow, keeping the road accessible during heavy snow for the milk truck.

Visible outside the east windows is the one-time rock garden, with its weeping cotoneaster bush and the forsythias neaby. This is a preferred-choice eating spot for our resident pair of cardinals, so seeds scattered under the spreading bushes keep it full of bird traffic.

Our single west-facing window is actually somewhat boring, view-wise. It looks out on the garage and outbuildings, pretty ho-hum except when the heifers run amuck or visitos stop by the barn. This west window is more interesting for the tall cacti wintering there, thriving on warm afternoon sunshine. (When we have sunshine, which hasn't been often.)

My favorite windows are to the south, those looking out from the kitchen-dining part of our old farmhouse, Here is where we do the bulk of our bird wathcing, from the colorful songbirds to the sharp-shinned hawk—which snags sparrows in-flight for fast-food snacs.

At varying locations on one of the old maples we keep a wooden bird feeder filled with black oil sunflower seeds, an ear of corn and a hunk of suet hung in an old onion bag. This bird buffet attracts a variety of visitors outside our south windows—bluejays and titmice, nuthatches perpetually parading up and down the tree's trunk, oodles of finches, downy, hairy and red-bellied woodpeckers, and all sorts of sparrows thumbing their noses, 'er beaks, at the opportunist hawk.

And it was through the south windows that we recently spied especially-welcome bird visitors. They arrived as one of the last snows was going through meltdown, flapping down, then braking to a splash on the small pond, unfrozen from an abundance of underground feeder water.

Nearly a dozen of the big, handsome Canada geese paddle to the side of the pond, waddled out and lounged around on a section of grass melted out under the willow tree. Some of last year's hatch, we presume, since they seemed to make themselves right at home.

Their return makes us long for the day when we can open the back door and let the warm morning sunshine flood through the stormdoor glass and into the kitchen.

And in the meantime, we're grateful for the blessing of windows on our winter world.

Winter Survival Tips

• Stocking Up on Milk. Milk can be frozen. The process does cause changes in texture and some flavor change but it is a safe produce. Store at 0°F and use within 3 to 4 weeks. Best used for cooking or mixing in other things.

If you are freezing a quart of half gallon remove some of the milk and allow at least 2 inches of head space for expansion. You could pour the excess into a freezer plastic bag (do not place directly on wire shelf in the freezer—will shape and freeze around the wire) or glass canning jar. Defrost in the refrigerator. Do not refreezer.

• Non-Fat Dry Milk will also help carry you through. Dry milk should be stored in a cool, dark, dry place. If the package has been opened you need to re-seal it or over warp the package to keep out moisture. Old dry milk develops a rancid unpleasant taste over time. It should have a very faint aroma. If it smells old, rancid or strong, it will "turn off" the drinkers. Discard and get a fresh supply. Check the box for an expiration date.

• UHT Milk is shelf stable ultra high temperature milk. You can find it in the grocery store in the same section as the evaporated and dry milk. It can sit on the shelf at room temp for a year or two and will probably have an expiration date. Once the package has been opened, treat it like fresh milk and refrigerate. Use it withing 3 or 4 days. It comes in quarts and half pints, whole and low fat, plain, chocolate and strawberry.

Family Support Boosts 13-Year-Old To High Position With Polled Hereford Association

DAVID HIEBERT
Westmoreland Co. Correspondent

AMITY (Washington Co.)—Elizabeth Dye, daughter of Dan and Mary Ellen Dy has been named the Pennsylvania Polled Hereford queen for 1996. Elizabeth and her twin sister Jessica, are seventh grade honor students at the Trinity (public) Middle School, in Washington County, and active in the Glyde Ag 4-H club, the Silver Bits 4-H club, and the Junior Polled Hereford Association.

Elizabeth's first duties turned out differently than she or her family expected. Though she had expected to help out at the Farm Show in Harrisburg the first week in January, the new queen was trapped by heavy snows about five miles from the Farm Show complex. "We saw about five minutes of the show on television," Dan, her dad said. The state of emergency declared by the Commonwealth prohibited anyone except emergency personnel from being on the roads. As reported in the January 13 issue of Lancaster Farming, the show went on, but the crowd was in the hundreds rather than the thousands that were expected.

Elizabeth is looking forward to presiding at other events this year, including the Junior Pennsylvania preview show in June, Keystone Information Exposition Livestock in October, and county fairs during the summer. The Polled Hereford organization chose her above other applicants from throughout the state. After being asked to compete, Elizabeth wrote an essay about being queen and completed a questionnaire or resume about her farm involvements. Her duties will include representing the Hereford breed at beef shows and at the three-day Polled Hereford Heifer Sale at the Beef Exposition held at Penn State. At 13, Elizabeth is at the youngest eligible age for participating in the association. The age range for participation is 13-21 years old.

The logo of Blossom Valley Farm reflects the changing business of the farm. It includes fruit and nuts, Herefords, Hampshires, honey and grain. The business is changing to emphasize the Herefords above the other produce. The logo is used on their business card which includes the names of all the family members, and on their letterhead.

Beginning the Farm

Dan, the father in this active family, is an investment manager and has a business office on the 196-acre Blossom Valley Farm. He says that when he bought the acreage in 1988 it had a lot of scrub brush and dilapidated buildings. Since buying the property, the family has built a new house, four new barns, developed about 100 acres into hay and pasture and planted 20 acres into fruit and nut trees. One advantage in starting with no barns, Dan says, is that you can build them where you need them. The barns have been located in the hay fields for efficient hay harvesting. And that is also where the animals are fed.

The operation has animals in three locations centered around the family house and calving barn. It includes 63 head of cattle: 31 registered females, 10 embryo recipients, and shares in several animals. The children show both steers and heifers which they own. Randall, at age 7, is too young to compete, but is working on the breed show where the show animals must have been owned and bred by the person showing them.

To promote the farm, Dan developed a logo for use at shows and on the family letterhead and business card. In the irony of relating to government, their farm address (along with changes for everyone

Elizabeth Dye, 13-year-old daughter of Dan and Mary Ellen Dye has been named the 1996 Polled Hereford queen. Elizabeth from Amity, Washington County, is active in the Glyde Ag 4-H, Silver Bits, 4-H and has shown in both the PA and National Junior Polled Hereford shows. Photos David Hiebert.

Near one of four barns on the Blossom Valley Farm, Elizabeth, Mary Eline and Jessica Dye check up on some of next year's potential show stock.

On a cold February day, Elizabeth and Jessica Day, Blossom Valley farm, note that the winter coat of their summer show stock is now longer and rougher. The animal in front of the girls was the grand champion in the 1995 Washinton County fair.

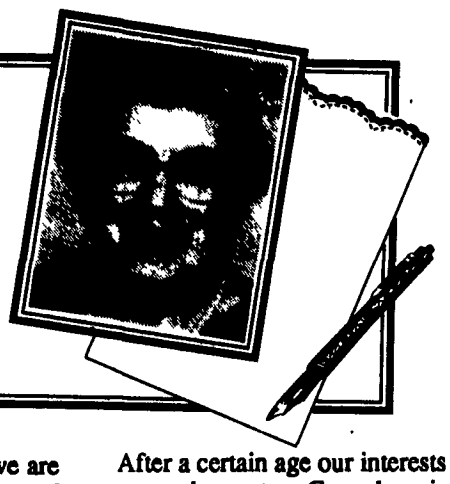
HOMESTEAD NOTES

The Dye family (front-to-back, left-to-right): Zach 10; Jessica 13 (queen) Elizabeth 13; Randall 7; Dan, Mary Ellen. Each family members has responsibilities including the children who both own and show some animals. Named the Blossom Valley Farm, Dan has been workig this land since 1988.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser



As we get older I think we are better able to realize how some of our relatives felt. One lady phoned her daughter-in-law every morning to say, "It is no fun to get old." Not everyone feels that way but we all must make allowances for our age.

We no longer can skip down the road and climbing stairs is considered to be work. Visits to doctor's offices are more frequent and we learn to live with aches and pains. Dentist's visits are very expensive but we think a good appearance is necessary.

When my children were young I took them along to visit relatives in nursing homes as the people seemed to relate to them. Now my sister visits with her cat and her dog as it seems to please the folks and brings back pleasant memories of their own pets.

After a certain age our interests seem to change too. Geneology is a consuming interest for some people while antiques and their history appeals to others. Some of us have families who saved everything and so we have an assortment of small things.

My dry sink contains a double rolling pin, a dough scraper, a small brass bell, a dinner horn and some telephone insulators. One drawer has old ledgers that probably would not entertain anyone else but as I know who wrote them, I enjoy reading them.

Recently, I ordered a lot of historical books on old farm buildings, covered bridges and early settlers in southeastern Pennsylvania. Now I shall have to find time to sit down and read some of them before the winter is over and the snow all melted.

Family Support

in rural Washington County) changed from "RD 1, Box 88" to "403 Horne Run Road" shortly after completing the design. The stationary was out of date almost as soon as it was produced.

In other management directions, Dan is aiming to increase the herd to keep him on the farm full time. It is an "as soon as possible" priority for him, though he would not project when that might be accomplished. At present Blossom Valley Farm includes two employees from outside the family: Jack Beecham as manager and Christopher Lyle.

Though Dan has deep roots in the area (his mom and dad both attended the Trinity School where the children go), Mary Ellen is an import from Texas. With the youngest child now 7, she says it is a joy to go to shows and not have to worry about human babies in addition to the animal babies.

In addition to the motherly task of making sure the children do their feeding chores, and get to their club meetings, Mary Ellen helps out in the agricultural groups with organizational tasks, too, such as writing for the clubs' newsletters.

Changes in Judging

The family notes a changing emphasis in judging beef. Judges are increasingly using tools beyond visual—what they see in the animal. Ten-year-old Zach noted that in one of the shows, the judge used ultrasound to see the muscling below the cleanly shampooed and manicured hide.

Dan also notes the increasing use of the EPD (expected prodigy difference) in judging. With such data available, the earlier generations of an animal can help the judge learn about a particular show animal.

Such changes, according to Dan, help the long-term development of a breed toward better production in the slaughter house as well as in the show arena.

The Family and The Farm

The family started out showing smaller animals: lambs, turkeys, market hogs, and horses. Elizabeth and Jessica have been showing beef for three years. During that time, they have showed champions at the local, and participated in state and national shows. Jessica was on the Junior National Beef Bowl Quiz Team from Pennsylvania, which became national champions. Elizabeth was in a Hereford marketing group competition which placed third in the nation.

One factor in choosing Herefords over any other breed is they are gentle and easy to handle. Each animal is halter broke, to promote their ease when near people. This training pays dividends when preparing for a show, in the ease and confidence of the showman in the ring, and when leaving a fairgrounds, the animals can be lead, not driven, to the trailer.

Conclusion

In many ways the Dye family represents a trend in agriculture: roots and deep in the land, with increasing emphasis on competition, technology and creative management. Look for (queen) Elizabeth and others in the family at Hereford shows this next summer.

All gardeners, great and small miss the softer elements like trees and color in their landscape this time of year. Bright colors are a necessity for planting this spring. With the planting season not far off, think about adding color and interests to areas of existing groundcovers, by using a mix of flowering perennial plants, trees and hardy spring-flowering bulb species.

Spring-flowering bulbs have long been a way to add color to drab landscapes. Most are Fall planted. Varieties of narcissus, wood hyacinth, allium, crocus, grape hyacinth and snowdrop and trout lily work well. All of them work well with existing groundcovers.

Bulbs look the best when used in mass plantings—large areas with the same cultivar and species. Bulb plants with thin or narrow leaves rather than the wide-leaved tulips and nacissus are preferred. If tulips are desired, use the short, early-flowering Kaufmanniani tulips or rock garden tulip varieties.

Combinbe herbaceous perennials and spring flowering bulbs with established beds of periwinkle (vinca). The leaves of white and yellow flowering narcissus are easily folded under periwinkle leaves to permit maturing of the bulbs for the following season. Other possible perennials with periwinkle include Virginia bluebells, bleeding-heart, astilbe, jack-in-the-pulpit and many of the day lilies. Even though the perennials die back to the ground every winter, you will still have color and coverage with the periwinkle.

To avoid the "all" green foliage syndrome, vary the shapes and sizes of your bedding areas. The bulb display gardens of Europe are so spectacular because they feature hundreds of bulbs in one irregular pattern.

Perennial plants used with groundcovers are often crowded out if not spaced in the bed properly. Even though they die back every winter, perennials still offer mixed colors of green foliage.

Avoid problem groundcovers like English ivy (Hectera Helix). If planting, use the small foliage and shorter leaf stem varieties. Spring flowering bulbs often bloom before the special ivy varieties makes new growth in the spring.

Trees often serve several gardening functions. They provide privacy, emphasize views or screen out objectionable views. They reduce glare and reflection. Street trees direct pedestrian traffic. They also provide backgrounds, or soften, complement or enhance architecture. Trees bring natural elements and wildlife habitats into rural urban surroundings; all of which increase the quality of life for all gardeners great and small.

If you are serious about adding color to your groundcover beds or planting trees, consult a good ornamental reference or call your local Extension office.

Here is something often overlooked...

Only Patz gives you 45 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain, resulting in a chain so good that others are attempting to copy it.

Many Patz Gutter Cleaner chains are still working well after more than 30 years of use.

After the Patz patent on hook-and-eye chain expired, some other companies have attempted to copy the Patz chain. Some promote 10- and 12-year warranties on chain—but they have not yet had 10 or 12 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain.

Patz has continued to improve its chain for 45 years with special-formula steel, special forging techniques and special steel hardening processes.

Rely on the proven, long-life chain. Patz provides a 15-year chain warranty because so many chains are working well long after 15 years of use.

Better yet, your Patz chain warranty is backed up by a solid, reliable company that has been serving farmers for 45 years with the same family ownership.

'Cherry' Recipes To Brighten Winter Blahs

February is Cherry Month in honor of the story told of George Washington cutting down the family's cherry tree. Although that story is now said to be a fable, the tradition of celebrating cherry month in February remains entrenched.

Here are many recipes from our readers that are sure to put a "cherry" spot in these long winter months.

CHERRY S'MORES

7-ounce chocolate candy bar, broken into 8 sections
8 graham cracker squares
8 large marshmallows
1 cup light cherry pie filling

Place one piece candy on each cracker. Microwave, 4 crackers at a time, on high for 45 seconds to 1 minute, until chocolate starts to melt. Place one marshmallow on each cracker. Microwave 15 to 30 seconds until soft. Top each with spoonful of cherry filling. Repeat. May substitute other fruit for cherry filling.

LAZY DAY CHERRY COBBLER

½ cup butter
2 cups sugar
2 cups flour
1½ cups milk
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 quarts seeded pie cherries, undrained

Melt butter in a 9x13-inch pan. Mix sugar, flour, milk, baking powder, and salt until smooth.

Pour batter into pan. Spoon one quart of pie cherries, undrained, over the top. Bake at 400 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes. Serve warm with milk or vanilla ice cream.

CHERRY SQUARES

2 cups flour
1 cup brown sugar
¾ cup melted butter
2 cups quick oats
1 teaspoon baking soda
4 cups cherry pie filling

Mix together everything except pie filling to make crumbs. Press all but 1½ cups into bottom of 9x13-inch baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 minutes. Spread cherry filling on hot crust. Top with remaining crumbs and bake until lightly browned.

CHOCOLATE SURPRISE CAKE

4 cups cherries, fresh seeded
¾ cup sugar
½ cup water
2 tablespoons Clear Jell
½ teaspoon almond flavoring

Stir together and pour into 9x13-inch pan.

3 cups flour
2 cups sugar
6 tablespoons cocoa
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking soda
⅔ cup oil
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 tablespoons vinegar
1½ cups milk

Mix together batter. Pour it carefully over cherry mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-40 minutes.

SOUR CHERRY PIE

1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons corn starch
¼ cup cherry juice
3 to 4 cups cherries, thawed
1 tablespoon butter

Cook first four ingredients until boiling rapidly. Add drained cherries and cook until thickened. Add butter, cool, and put in unbaked pie crust. Bake at 400 degrees for 40-45 minutes.

HOMEMADE CHERRY PIE FILLING

4 cups cherries, canned or frozen
1 to 1½ cups cherry juice
1 cup sugar
3-4 tablespoons cornstarch
½ teaspoon almond extract
Few drops red food coloring

If frozen cherries are used, heat in saucepan just until juice flows as cherries thaw. Drain before cherries are warm. If cherries are sugared, reduce sugar to taste. Stir sugar and cornstarch together. Add small amount of juice to make a paste. Stir into juice. Cook, stirring until sauce thickens. Stir in drained cherries, extract, and coloring; cool.

CHERRY NEW HAMPSHIRE CAKE

2 cups sugar
3 cups flour
3 eggs
1 cup butter
1 cup milk
2 teaspoons baking powder
1½ tablespoons vanilla
1 can cherry pie filling

Ingredients are best when mixed at room temperature. Mix all ingredients but pie filling. Do not overmix. Pour batter into a prepared tube pan. Pour pie filling around top of batter and using a knife, swirl pie filling down into the batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 75-80 minutes.

This is my mother's recipe for what we called a New Hampshire cake with little variation. This is a pound type cake and is delicious with the filling. If you prefer, the cake may be made without the pie filling and baked for 60 minutes or any other pie filling may be substituted.

Featured Recipe

Fastnacht Day is coming up on February 20. The tradition of eating fastnachts (no hole doughnuts) is popular in this area. The tradition began years ago when cooks used up all the fat before Lent season by making fastnachts.

Let's face it, times are changing. Few households have lard to use and fewer still observe fasting during the Lent season. Nevertheless many are trying to reduce fat in their diets year round. Perhaps a baked doughnut is more in vogue for the 1990s.

Recently several people have sent recipes for baked doughnuts. Here is one from Eileen Dove from Upper Tract, West Virginia.

NO-FRY DOUGHNUTS

2 packages dry yeast dissolved in
¼ cup water
1½ cups lukewarm milk
½ cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
½ cup cooking oil
4¼ cups flour

Mix as for any bread dough. Let rise in covered bowl in warm place until doubled in bulk (about one hour). Roll out and cut with 2½ -inch cutter.

Lay out on bread board, brush with melted butter and let rise about 20 minutes. Heat oven to 425 degrees and bake 8-10 minutes or until golden brown, remove from oven and brush again with melted butter. Shake in plastic bag with sugar or sugar and cinnamon.

Or, omit brushing with butter and dip the doughnut in a glaze made with the following:

2⅔ cups confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 tablespoons water

Consuming Thoughts

by

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

Medical evidence strongly suggests a relationship between diet and heart disease. The National Institutes of Health and the American Heart Association have recommended dietary guidelines for a healthy heart:

- Restrict cholesteral intake to 300 mg per day for men and 225 mg per day for women.
- Restrict fat intake to 30 percent of caloric intake.
- Reduce the amount of saturated fats.

Recent findins indicate that including fish in the diet paves the way for a healthier heart and helps prevent cardiovascular diesease. Medical researchers attribute the therapeutic effect of seafood to a group of polyunsaturated fatty acids found in fish oil. These are popularly called Omega-3 acids. Seafoods are the richest source of Omega-3 fatty acids.

All seafoods have some omega-3 acids, but the amounts can vary. The current recommendation for a heart healty diet is to substitute fish for meat in your diet twice a week.

Healthy preparation methods are essential for keeping seafoods nutritional benefits. Cooking makes many foods we eat more palatable, easier to digest and in many cases safer, but it can also alter the nutrient composition of the raw food. Most nutrients are well retained by the moist common methods used to cook seafood. The effects of cooking on specific nutrients can vary, but in general the greatest loss from cooking is water. Some fat may be lost (e.g. grilled fish) or added (e.g. fried fish) during cooking, and the amount will vary with the cooking method used.

Poaching, steaming, baking, broiling, stir-frying, and microwaving seafood are all excellent methods of preparation that required little or no added fat. A commonly used recommendation for cooking seafood to ensure safety is to cook the fish until an internal temperature of 140°F is reached. This can usually be achieved by cooking the fish at 400°F for 10-15 minutes per inch of thickness. If fish is cooked from the frozen state, the cooking time is generally doubled. Actual cooking time may vary depending on personal preferences, oven temperature, and initial product temperature. Fish can be tested for "doneness" with a fork. The flesh of the fish should have just turned opague, be fork-tender, and close to the point of flaking. Overcooking dries out and toughens the product and makes a less pleasing dish.

Prepared seafoods that have been breaded and fried absorb fat from the cooking oil and the total fat content can be greatly increased. Fats present in the raw product may also dissolve into the cooking oil, and the omega-3 fatty acid content of the raw product may be slightly to significantly altered.

Many people are used to eating seafood that is fried or prepared with rich sauces made with cream and butter, and have not discovered that seafood can be delicious prepared in a low-fat way. Knowing how to select and modify recipes for seafood can help retain seafood's health advantages.

When evaluating a seafood recipe, consider the following. Does the recipe: Suggest cooking the seafood with added fat? Call for a sauce of broth that contains added fats, such as cream or butter? Call for the addition of seasonings high in sodium?

If the recipe has a lot of added fat or sodium, consider how often the dish is eaten and the portion size. If the dish makes a significant contribution to the daily fat and sodium intake, the ingredients that need to be modified should be identified and appropriate substitutions should be made.

Peanut Butter Tandy Cake

4 eggs
2 cups sugar
2 cups flour
Dash salt
Peanut butter
1 tablespoon shortening
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 teaspoons vegetable oil
2 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup milk
Hershey bar

Cream eggs, vanilla, sugar, and oil. Beat well. Add flour and baking powder; beat again. Put in a large cookie sheet, greased and floured. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. While cake is still hot, spread with peanut butter. Cool in refrigerator. Melt 1 or 2 ounce Hershey bars with shortening. Spread on cooled cake. Refrigerate. Cut in squares after chocolate hardens.

TastyKake Butterscotch Krimpets

4 egg whites
16-ounce box golden pound cake mix
⅔ cup water

Frosting:

⅓ cup butterscotch morsels
⅓ cup butter, softened
1½ cups confectioners' sugar

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Beat the egg white until thick. Blend the egg whites with the cake mix and water. Pour the batter into a greased 9x12-inch baking pan. Bake for 30 minutes or until the top is golden brown and a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean. Cool on wire rack.

For frosting: Melt the butterscotch morsels in a microwave oven on high for 45 seconds or heat over a double boiler.

Mix the butter with the melted butterscotch. Add the confectioners' sugar. Blend with a mixer until the frosting has a smooth consistency.

Spread the frosting on top of the cooled pound cake. Cut the cake into nine rows.

Makes two cuts lengthwise. This should divide the cake into 27 equal pieces. Makes 27 cakes.

ANSWER — Corinne Lyter, Port Royal, wanted a recipe for cinnamon twists like those served by Pomeroy's coffee shop in Harrisburg years ago. Thanks to Melva Baumer, Millmont, for sending a recipe.

Sour Cream Cinnamon Twists

2 cups sour cream
4 tablespoons shortening, melted
6 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons salt
2 packages yeast
½ cup warm water
2 eggs
6 cups flour, sifted
4 tablespoons butter, melted
⅔ cup brown sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon

Bring sour cream to boiling in large saucepan. Remove from heat. Stir in shortening, sugar, baking soda, and salt. Stir until well blended; cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in water. Add yeast mixture and unbeaten eggs into cooled mixture. With spoon, mix flour into mixture, turn onto lightly floured surface and knead until smooth. Roll out dough to ¼ -½ -inch thickness. Spread entire surface with butter. Mix brown sugar and cinnamon together, sprinkle over half of surface and fold remaining half over cinnamon mixture. Cut into one-inch strips and twist. Place on lightly greased cookie sheets; let rise 75 minutes or until doubled. Bake at 375 degrees or until light brown. Frost when cool.

This frosting is what helps make these twists so fabulous.

Brown Butter Frosting:

2-3 tablespoons butter
½ cup brown sugar
2 cups confectioners' sugar (sifted)
2-4 tablespoons boiling water

Melt butter in saucepan, cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until butter stops bubbling and is a nut brown color. Combine with sugar and water. Beat until smooth.

Dates Set For Keystone National Rib Cook-Off And Music Fest

YORK (York Co.)—Rib lovers throughout central Pennsylvania can make definite plans to "pig out" at the third annual Keystone National Rib Cook-Off and Music Fest, which is set for Thursday, July 25 though Sunday, July 28, at the York County Fairgrounds.

"After two successful years, we've demonstrated that the Keystone National Rib Cook-Off and Music Fest is truly an event that the whole family can enjoy," said Tony Dobrosky, chairman of the event. "We're once again looking forward to hosting 'the summer's biggest barbecue!'"

Highlights of the four-day funfest include over a dozen "ribrateurs" selling their barbecued specialties to the public and competing in a judged competition, and non-stop musical entertainment that is sure to set fire to the main stage with performance by national and regional talent.

Other events include: a juried craft fair, a family fun stage, pig races, Jack Russell dog races, a potbellied pig show, children's activities and an old-fashioned carnival.

Proceeds from the rib cook-off will benefit the Pennsylvania Livestock Associaiton, a nonprofit organization that represents the total livestock association at the state level, provides leadership in education, promotion, research and legislation, as well as encourages and supports youth activities.

The Pennsylvania Livestock Association is looking for volunteers for the third annual rib cook-off. Dobrosky said, "Volunteers are needed to help make the event a success. We have a need for volunteers to serve as ticket takers, concession stand workers, table cleaners and runners."

Anyone who is interested in volunteering or for addition information about the rib cook-off, call (610) 767-5026.

QUESTION — Fran Pierman, 723 Rosemont Ringoes Rd. Stockton, N.J. 08559, wants the music and words to an old song called "Granny's Old Arm Chair." It goes "How they tittered, How they taft, how my brothers and sisters at me laughed, when they heard the lawyer declare, Granny only left to me her old arm chair." The story goes on to say how the chair was stuffed with money. Send music directly to her.

With the high cost of today's pesticides, can you afford sloppy application?

Willmar Air Ride™ lets you apply 1/2 ounce per acre at 12 mph.

Today's post-emerge herbicides and insecticides are so powerful they're applied at almost unbelievably low rates. Like 1/2 ounce per acre in solution. That means you need an applicator as precise as the chemistry. And, because timing with these new products is so critical, you need a self-propelled applicator nimble enough to get into fields even in the mud.

For dependable application of today's sophisticated pre-emerge and post-emerge chemicals, more custom applicators and large farmers rely on Willmar Air Ride. Here are just some of the reasons :

- Unequaled visibility, driver comfort and convenience.
- Patented Air Bag Suspension adjusts on-the-go.
- 60 ft. boom, 600 gal. tank for more acres per day.
- Articulated steering minimizes crop damage.
- Wheel tracks adjust from the cab to fit row widths.
- Low-compaction tires grip soft ground, yet won't crush crops.
- Adjustable boom fits various crop heights.
- Reliable John Deere engine, long-term dependability.

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

GRANTSVILLE (Garrett Co., Md.)—"Whew! It's very long and very tiring," said the seventh and sixth grade kids who were on a field trip from school to go cross-country skiing.

They were students from the Salisbury-Elk Lick District in Somerset County. Their adventure was happening at the New Germany State Park where snowy trails wound through the forest of tall evergreen trees.

Most of the kids said they had never been on cross-country skis. No wonder they went "upside down" so often and got sore muscles.

"At first, you just fall all the time," said seventh grader, Angie Maust, giggling.

And even though the temperature outdoors was cold ... brrr ... all the kids said: "I would rather be here than in class!"

The kids were told earlier to dress "in layers." That meant it was better if they wore several sweaters or shirts, instead of one heavy jacket. If they got too hot, one sweater could be pulled off, but they would still be warm.

When they finally returned to the cozy snack bar at lunctime, the kids practically attacked their packed lunches, their pop, and their juice. They acted starved.

By using their feet and leg muscles to push themselves forward on their cross-country skis, and using their hands and arm muscles to control their ski poles; the tired kids had burned up a lot of energy that was stored in their bodies. The hunger and thirst was the body's way of indicating low fuel. It needed it's storage tank (stomach) refilled.

As soon as they ate and rested, the kids were rearin' to get back on the trails that Ranger Joe Stevens had carefully "groomed" with his Track Truck.

Ranger Joe is the offical trail groomer. "Basically, I make the trails flat and level, so they are nice for the people," Ranger Joe said.

He said that the cross-country ski track can get high and low spots after lots of people go over it. Ranger Joe takes his powerful grooming equipment and "shaves" off the nasty bumps, lumps and humps.

The kids were eager to share some advice after spending their first day ever, on cross-country skis — "bring a lot to drink ... don't get your skis crossed ... take lessons ... wear a couple pairs of socks ... make sure when you fall, you keep your feet together ... don't do a split ... don't fall frontwards ... get a good night's sleep ... don't get married."

Nobody knew what that last one had to do with skiing but, the guy who said it made everybody laugh.

The kids who made those suggestions were Joshua Pope, Christie Rosenberger, Chandra Drees, Carrie Miller, Angie Maust, Mike Livengood, Terry Spiker, Jessica Mast, Amy Hoover, Maggie Robertson, and Elizabeth McKenzie.

Ranger Mike Gregory also gave advice. Ranger Mike is the manager of four state parks called "The Savage River Complex." With the other rangers, he is responsible for keeping the state parks safe, clean, and beautiful.

Visitors can help the rangers by using good sense and acting in a responsible way, Ranger Mike said.

Cross-country skiers should always use the right kind of equipment (skis, poles, boots). Ranger Mike said they should know someone who is already familiary with the trail areas. They should used good manners and be polite to other skiers.

"Respect the resource (trees, plants, animals, birds, streams), and don't litter." Most importantly: "Let someone know where you are," he said.

All set for an afternoon of cross-country skiing are fromleft, Salisbury-Elk Lick seventh grader girls, Chandra Drees, Amy Hoover, Carrie Miller, Jessica Mast and Angie Maust.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — The perfect meal for those who love ethnic foods and for those who are curious promises to be The Spanish International Dinner to be held at the New Holland Spanish Mennonite Church on February 24.

A vast selection of empanadas, rice and beans, paella, tortillas, dulce to guayava and more are part of the all-you-can eat dinner.

The foods represented originate from many different Spanish-speaking countries — Bolivia, Dominican Republic, Colombia, Cuba, Honduras, El Salvador, Mexico, and Puerto Rico.

"Food from each of these countries is seasoned differently. Although many of the countries make rice and beans, they taste entirely different," said Wanda Aquino, who herself grew up in Puerto Rico and married Abel from Boliva. After she and her husband met at Goshen College and Wanda earned a master's degree in communications and photography, the couple moved to Lancaster County so that Abel could work with the Mennonite Central Committee.

Lupe Lopez was born in Tacoma, Washington, but grew up mostly in Michigan. Her family ate mostly Mexican-American foods, but her husband, who grew up in Mexico, prefers pure Mexican cruisine.

"There is not a lot of rice used in pure Mexican food but a lot of bean dishes seasoned with onion, garlic, chilies, and other 'hot' spices," Lupe said.

Lupe, who with her husband Brigg and five children work with the youth at the New Holland Mennonite Church, said that the idea for the meal originated with the youth about five years.

"They wanted to raise funds for mission work in Mexico. Since then, we use the money wherever it is most needed for church outreach. Some goes to needy families, some to mission work, youth work, women's activities, and college scholarships for youth."

Although the food is prepared by women from each of the different cultures, Lupe said, "Mostly Americans come to the dinner."

According to Lupe and Wanda, the dinner is a great opportunity for people to taste food from different cultures. Recipes for each dish are posted beside it and plenty of helpers are on hand to answer questions about each dish.

They explained that although white rice is used by most of the countries, the flavorings and cooking styles make each appear and taste entirely different. Beans used by each country also vary. Mexicans usually use pinto beans but the Dominican Republic prefer black beans. Most Central American countries use hot sauces and tortilla. South American countries use lots of potatoes, which are prepared differently than those in the U.S.

"South America also is known for its wonderful peanut soup," Wanda said. "It will be available at the dinner. Often people are hesitant to try it, but we try to encourage people to taste a little and they always like it."

The Spanish International Dinner will be served two times on February 24, from noon to 2 p.m. and from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m., at the New Holland Spanish Mennonite Church, 24 N. Roberts Ave., New Holland.

The all-you-can eat meal cost $7 for adults and $4.50 for children 4 to 11, and free for children ages 3 and under. For reservations or more information, call Mary Lopez (717) 354-9966 or Kimberly Ramirez (717) 355-9934.

Families Believe In 'Giving Back' To 4-H

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Behind every achieving 4-H'er is a supportive parent and behind every successful 4-H program are hard working parents.

Eugene and Carol Bollinger are shining examples of this in the Lancaster 4-H program.

"I feel it is payback time," said Eugene or "Gene" as he prefers to be called.

For all those years that he grew up as a 4-H'er and then watched his children Tracy, Amy, and Derick participate in 4-H programs, Gene, who is also a 4-H leader, believes that it is time for former members to pour back into the program so that others may continue to reap its benefits.

In support of the annual 4-H auction, which is being held today, Gene challenged former participants of 4-H to pay back into the program.

His diligence has paid off.

"The response has been overwhelming," Gene said.

Some of the novel items offered for auction include a buyer's choice purebred ewe lamb or wether donated by Dr. Robert Herr of Narvon. For decades, the Herr family have showed champion sheep, which they raise on their Nix-Besser Farm.

Kirk Diffenderfer, a Suffolk breeder, is offering a Suffolk market lamb.

Both well-known breeders the George Lewis family and the Abe and Dottie Landis family are offering wether lambs.

Salunga Acres is offering semen to breed Hereford cattle, which previously had been donated by the Harringtons of Speedwell. And Kendy Allen will offer a certificate for breeding to her Chincoteague stallion Lightning, which was the highest placed yearling filling pony at the state 4-H show. So far, Kendy said, Lightning has produced several foals and everyone except one was a pinto.

Because the animals are donated, all the proceeds from the sale will go into the 4-H operating fund. The purchaser must promise to show the animal at one show competition held in the county.

"In the past, the 4-H auction was generally a time where the parents purchased items. But this gives the 4-H'ers an opportunity to purchase their animal, which in turn benefits 4-H," Gene said.

Bollinger remembers that there were 120 members in the Lancaster 4-H Beef Club when he was a member.

"We couldn't pick our own steers. The club leaders would buy them and the members pulled numbers to get a steer," he said.

This practice changed around the 1970s. Kids now are free to purchase their animals wherever they prefer.

Bollinger believes it would be great if many of the members could purchase their show animals through the 4-H auction. He anticipates the idea of giving back to the 4-H program expanding in upcoming years to include the sale of swine and dairy animals.

"Four-H is a great program for kids to be in. It's these kids who are the 'good' kids who go on to college and improve the community," Gene said.

Carol said, "It teaches kids how to talk in front of a group and to keep records."

Daughter Tracy attributes her 4-H skills to enabling her to obtain a lab technician job with Lancaster DHIA.

The Bollingers other children include Amy, 16, and Derick, 11.

They raise sheep, pigs, and steers for 4-H and FFA projects on their nine-acre farmette located northwest of Manheim.

Tracy believes that showing steers is more challenging, but she enjoys showing all three. She has had the distinction of showing a champion or reserve champion sheep ever since she started 10 years ago. But this past season was the first time she took the grand champion trophy in swine competition at Manheim.

Some of the other highlights of Tracy's involvement in 4-H include being a member of the meat judging team, participating in leadership conferences, serving as a counselor, and traveling to Puerto Rico on the outstanding 4-H'er team.

Her 4-H training prepared her to excell in FFA at Manheim Central High School. Last year, she was the chapter president and she traveled to Kansas City twice to compete in national 4-H competition for judging and salesmanship.

Last week the 4-H livestock banquet wrapped up Tracy's official membership in 4-H. Now 19, she can no longer participate in 4-H competitions, but she promises to be a hearty supporter of her siblings continuing involvements.

On their Manheim farm, the Bollinger siblings raise sheep, hogs, and steers for 4-H and FFA projects, many of which have been named champions at local fairs. Their success is partially the result of their parents' expertise. Gene, a former 4-H'er and now a 4-H leader, rallies enthusiasm for the program. Carol keeps things running smoothly by providing plenty of food and Tide during the show circuit.

Gene Bollinger is proud this sign proclaims the farm is home for a 4-H'er. In his case, three of them.

Sixteen-year-old Amy is a 10th grader and an FFA member at Manheim Central High School. She prefers to show pigs and fit steers, with the sheep trailing a bit behind. Amy was high junior score at the meats judging event held during 4-H state days.

The past season, Amy reveled in the pride of showing the champion swine that was named the supreme champion animal at the Elizabethtown Fair. The next day, she showed the grand champion market lamb.

Eleven-year-old Derick is a sixth grader at Lititz Christian School. He likes showing pigs and sheep and wants to show steers. According to the Bollinger family tradition, the siblings must wait until they are FFA members to show steers to ensure that they are competent enough to handle the large animals.

Derick is confident that he can handle steers because he has worked with his sisters' steers at home.

This year, Derick showed the champion pig at Manheim Farm Show, where he had the reserve at last year's show.

The siblings have their own breed preferences. Amy prefers Hamps and has always shown them. Tracy prefers Dorsets, which, she says, are calm and easy to tame.

Derick said that he prefers whatever wins. He has shown a champion in both breeds and is not dogmatic in his choice.

The siblings choose their sheep from a penful that a breeder selects. The sheep are generally raised together until shows, when they are fed according to the need.

Premiums from show champions are divided evenly among the three except for premiums earned for separate breeds.

"One of the reasons I like to show a different breed is so I don't need to compete against my brother and sister in the show ring," Amy said.

Although Carol did not participate in 4-H in her youth, she is a firm supporter in the program after watching the benefits her own children received in it.

"My job is to be there," Carol said of the six shows her children participate in annually. "It's like a sports event where the parents go to support their kids."

Her job description includes more than sitting through day-long shows.

"I do the wash and prepare lots of food to keep them going."

The show circuit prevents little time for family vacations, but the family managed to squeeze a trip to Disney World in December.

For 24 years, Gene has worked for Hoffman Seeds in Landisville. Carol works there as a seasonal office worker and also clerks public sales.

When it comes to giving back to 4-H, the Bollinger siblings practice what their dad preaches. At the Manheim Farm Show last year, Tracy donated one of pigs to pay traveling expenses for the livestock judging team.

With their parents as examples, the Bollinger siblings say their dream is to get married, have kids, live on a farm, and have their own children involved in 4-H.

B.U.C.S. OWNER'S REPORT #52

The Word Is Out!

B.U.C.S. Owner's Report
- ✔ Increased Storage Capacity
- ✔ Better Feed Quality
- ✔ Faster Unloading
- ✔ Lower Maintenance

(BOTTOM UNLOADING CONVERSION SYSTEM)
is making big news!

Reports are coming in from B.U.C.S. owners everywhere. And they're reporting that their systems are delivering increased storage capacity, higher quality feed, faster unloading and reduced maintenance versus their old systems. Even in silos that had been retired! But don't take our word for it. Here's what your neighbor has to say about their B.U.C.S. System!

OWNER'S REPORT #52

"I like the big capacity way B.U.C.S. unloads. And with higher moisture haylage, we have better quality feed, with very low heat damage - test shows its 18% protein. Our operating costs are lower since it uses less electricity and it's easier to operate than a bottom unloader."

Ronald & Robert Adams, Adams Bros. Farms, Shoemakerville, PA

English Gardener Will Lecture In Marietta

MARIETTA (Lancaster Co.)— Renowned English authority on herbs, Caroline Holmes, chairman of the Herb Society of Great Britain, will present an illustrated lecture "The Ornamental Kitchen Garden," at historic Marietta Meeting house on Wednesday, March 13, at 1 p.m. The program is being sponsored by the Susquehanna Unit of the Herb Society of America. A tea will immediately follow the program.

Mrs. Holmes designed the "Ornamental Kitchen Garden" for the Country Living magazine which was then established at the Ryton Organic Gardens in England. The garden will be officially opened by HRH Prince of Wales. The research, design, and creation of these gardens is to be the subject of master classes at the New York Botanical Gardens in the spring.

Having assumed the leadership of the English Herb Society in 1994, Mrs. Holmes organized a series of workshops and seminars on herb gardens and borders to help celebrate the National Trust's centenary. In addition she has authored "Herbal Teas and Drinks" soon to be published by Culpeper Limited.

Call June Louise Evans (717) 393-3288 for reservations. Cost is $10. Deadline date is March 8.

ANSWER — June Baklik, Shelton, Ct., wanted a recipe for a dip that was baked in a loaf of Italian or French bread. Thanks to Melva Baumer, Millmont, for sending a recipe.

Slow-Ball Dip

1 large round loaf French, Italian, or other unsliced crusty bread
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
3 6½ -ounce cans chopped clams, drained (reserve ¼ cup liquid)
2 tablespoons grated onion
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon hot-pepper sauce or to taste
½ teaspoon salt
Parsley sprigs for garnish, optional
Raw vegetables for dipping

With sharp knife, cut top from bread; set aside. Hollow loaf, leaving a 1½ -2-inch thick shell; cut removed bread in cubes (see note): set both aside.

In a large bowl, beat cream cheese until smooth; stir in clams, the reserved clam juice, onion, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, pepper sauce, and salt until well-blended. On baking sheet, make a cross with two sheets of foil, each long enough to cover loaf. Center bread shell on foil. Pour clam mixture into shell; cover with bread top. Wrap loaf in foil. Bake in preheated 250 degree oven for 3 hours for flavors to blend and clam mixture to get piping hot. Remove top; sprinkle dip with parsley. Serve loaf on large platter surrounded by the bread cubes and raw vegetables for dippers. When empty the bread shell can be torn apart and eaten. Makes 12 servings. Note: Toast bread cubes in the oven during the last 5 minutes of baking.

New Fragrant Flowers To Debut At Philadelphia Flower Show

PHILADELPHIA—Wild blueberry and mountain laurel surround a Lenni Lenape village; a velvety canopy of orchids create Utopia in the jungle, and from Britain, new burgundy blossoms of hyacinths perfume the air when The Pennsylvania Horticltural Society's 1996 Philadelphia Flower Show presents "This Land Is Your Land, Philadelphia in Flower," February 25 through March 3 at the Pennsylvania Convention Center.

The Greater Delaware Valley Region has more public gardens than any other area in the United States. A profile of local gardens, arboretums and houses, which were the first of their kind to be established, invites visitors to explor a great variety of subjects, from religion and architecture to botany, social history and zoology—not to mention landscape design.

A 100-foot waterway provides a dizzying assortment of fountains and a profusion of blooming flowers set in 19th century patterned beds. This new entrance feature of the Show leads to a grand 24,000-square-foot main aisle. Here, Philadelphia shines with an elaborate grouping of gardens that include the river view of John Bartram's farm house and flower garden. A rosarian's paradise surrounds Wyck, one of the City's oldest existing houses. Mercury sits among flowers in a Palladian temple on the grounds of the Morris Arboretum of the University of Pennsylvania. This electric 76-acre Victorian estate has been systematically restored and adaptively reused as a public garden and forward-looking university center of education and research. These renowned gardens are members of the Gardens Collaborative, a collective of 36 local gardens and arboreta. Their portrayal explores a horticultural richness unique to Philadelphia and set the stage for the Philadelphia Flower Show's most impressive presentation to date.

The Philadelphia Flower Show has always been a showcase for the new and unusual. This year, the Zoological Society of Philadelphia opens its huge iron gates to showcase some of the 208 species of trees and Victorian architecture found in America's oldest zoo. The 'Woodstock' hyacinth, in its first year of commercial availability, brings a joyous spring to the Show with its wine-colored, fragrant blossoms. The 'Cadillac' rose, a full-blown pink hybrid, leads the wave of new South American varieties to this country. And, garden art and architecture, more pronounced than ever, illustrate America's passion for the outdoor garden.

Gardening and lifestyle become one, as peaceful pine groves surround a Native American garden. The "three sisters"—corn, beans and squash—appear in a modern day Native American home, reminding us of the lessons to be learned from Native American life.

Elsewhere in the 10-acre exhibition hall, dozens of gardens create pure delight. Hawaiian lei makers demonstrate their traditional art among the tropical foliage and orchids of Hawaii's Waiamea Valley. The waterwheel of an old Grist Mill provides a peaceful backdrop for a wedding. And, divine displays offer a spiritual experience amidst the National Cathedral's gothic structure.

More than 580 artistic and horticultural classes demonstrate the expertise and creativity of more than 700 great gardeners who compete with nearly 2,000 entries of specimen plants, forced flowering bulbs and whimsical topiaries, elaborate room and garden displays and a massive gallery of artistic arranments. These experts will create and coax their floral designs, plant collections, flower-

Seeing Eye Puppies

MORRISTOWN, N.J.—The Seeing Eye of Morristonw, New Jersey, is seeking families to raise puppies for the blind. You will be given a beautiful six or seven week old puppy of your choice, Golden Retriever, Labrador Retriever, or German Shepherd. The Seeing Eye will pay all veterinarian bills, give you a quarterly allowance to pay for food, and start you off with a collar, leash, brush, and basic dog needs. Since the Seeing Eye is affiliated with the 4-H Clubs, you will become a 4-H Member and have the support of the local 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club also.

The Dauphin County 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club meets the second Thursday of each month at the Agricultural Building on Peter's Mountain Road in Dauphin. Members also have outings each month, visiting the Polyclinic Hospital, visits to Strawberry Square, Candy Lane and Chocolate World, walks to City Island, etc. Your main responsibility is to provide a loving home to the puppy and attend meetings and outings for socialization for your puppy.

There is a growing demand for Seeing Eye Dogs, and you can help by raising a puppy, and knowing because of your efforts a blind person has been given freedom and independence. Please consider this very worthwhile gift of your time. You will actually get to see your dog work in harness after training, and receive a picture of your dog taken in harness prior to leaving the Seeing Eye to begin his life with a blind person.

If you have any questions or would like more information regarding 4-H Club, please contact Cathy Yingst at (717) 599-5917, or feel free to visit the next 4-H Meeting on March 14, 7:00 p.m., at 1451 Peter's Mountain Road.

Cambria County 4-H members and leaders will be taking orders for the whole hog sausage and lean ground beef until Wednesday, Feb. 14. Orders will be delivered on Saturday, Feb. 24 by the 4-H members and leaders.

The two-pound package of regular or hot, whole hog sausage costs $4 per package ($2 per pound). Embryology Project

Each year the Adams County 4-H program involves more than 1,100 youth in the 4-H embryology school enrichment project.

Why is the 4-H embryology project popular? One reason is its simplicity. The only two items needed are a functioning incubator to maintain proper temperatures, humidity levels and ventilation, and fresh fertile eggs. Once the incubator has been warmed up for 24 hours and the eggs placed inside, the project is under way.

Wampler Longacre provided funds to purchase 15 new incubators for the 4-H Embryology project, which is a vital part to the chick hatching experience.

The 4-H Embryology program, because of its structure, is well adapted to the classroom. It helps youth apply basic principles of mathematics, science, English, and health through a "learn by doing" experience.

Managing an incubator with two dozen fertile eggs is part of this "hands on" 4-H project which is conducted in the classroom. The 4-H members turn the eggs regularly and maintain proper temperature, humidity, and ventilation in their classroom incubator.

4-H members can see the heart beating and later hear the chick peep from inside the shell. It becomes very exciting, not only for the class involved, but for other students in the school as well.

Teachers report that this project helps to increase motivation of students and teaches responsibility. Each student takes an active part in the project by turning eggs, recording temperature, and helps with overall management of the incubator.

Central Penn Swine Club

The Central Penn 4-H Swine Club will be reorganizing on march 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the Cumberland County Extension Office.

This club is for 4-H members primarily interested in breeding and market swine projects.

For more information on joining 4-H, contact Laura Watts at the Cumberland County Extension Office, 1100 Claremont Road, Carlisle, PA 17013, (717) 240-6500, (717) 697-0371 ext. 6500, or (717) 532-7286 ext. 6500.

Seed Selection Key To Garden Success

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Shopping the seed catalog is interesting, enjoyable . . . and a challenge.

There is so much to choose from, even in a single catalog, that a lot of time can be spent deciding what to order.

Gardeners who are not very familiar with the plants offered should also spend time checking cultural information. Many catalogs provide quite a bit of detail about growing the plants they sell. By paying attention to that information, gardeners can increase their chances of success by making the right choices.

Most of the catalogs we receive by mail are selling seeds throughout the United States. Not all the offerings will be suitable for New Jersey.

Plant hardiness is one important characteristic that most people are aware of in selecting plants, but growing temperature preferencee is also important. That information can often be found in the catalogs if one is looking for it.

Descriptions may note that a plant grows best under cool temperatures or it may be listed as a cool-season plant. In general, these plants are not the best choices for New Jersey.

That does not mean they should not be used, but used on a trial basis if the gardener is not familiar with how they perform here. Sometimes these plants (snapdragons, for example) do very well in our spring and fall but languish during summer. Delphiniums tend not to perform ideally, but, even at that, they can be attractive spring garden features.

Soil type is a consideration with some plants. Where a catalog specifies that a sandy soil is preferred, Hunterdon County gardeners would probably be wise to look for another selection.

Seed germination times and sowing instructions are not always available in catalogs as they are on seed packets, so the packet should be checked on arrival and a planting schedule arranged.

Many flowers and vegetable seeds must be started indoors, another challenge that may or may not be in gardeners' plans. Be aware of need to seed early indoors before ordering.

QUESTION — Glenda Strouse, Northumberland, would like to know the title and author of an excerpt from the following poem. The complete poem appeared in the 12/9 issue, but we need to condense for space. It's her grandmother's favorite poem and she could recite every word until a stroke took her voice. She is 89 and in a nursing home, but Glenda reads this poem to her every Christmas. Glenda said that there may be parts missing or wrong since she wrote it from memory.

The yule log blazed in the ancient hold.

ANSWER — Thomas Hicswa, Hammonton, N.J., wanted to purchase couplers for Marx toy trains. Thanks to John Aaron Rissler and to Philip Smith, Womelsdorf, who write that the following places have everything needed. It is necessary to specify exactly which cars and locomotives need couplers and the type of coupler because Marx has a bewildering variety of each item. Marx Toy Trains, 209 E. ANSWER — Toni DeMartins, Seymour, Conn., wanted to know where to purchase black walnuts by mail order and she wanted recipes using black walnuts. Thanks to Emory Beck, Seven Valleys, who writes that he has a limited number of pounds to sell. Contact the Becks at R.2 Seven Valleys, PA 17360-9802 or call (717) 428-2161. The Becks write that the easiest way to prepare a black walnut cake is to use a white cake mix and prepare as directed on box, add 1 teaspoon black walnut flavoring and ½ cup crushed walnuts in cake and ½ cup crushed walnuts on top of any flavor icing desired.

ANSWER — In response to Lisa Sparr's question on cleaning gas grill grates, Donna Truesdell writes to put them in a large, heavy-duty plastic trash bag. Add ½ cup household ammonia, close tightly with a rubber band, and let set overnigh. The next morning, hose grates down outside or rinse in sink.

ANSWER — Brenda Weidenhammer, Bernville, wanted the words to the songs, "It's a Small World After All" and "How much is that Puppy in the Window." Thanks to Mrs. Lawrence Schoenly, Barto, for sending the words to both songs.

It's A Small World

It's a world of laughter, a world of tears;
It's a world of hopes and a world of fears
There's so much that we share that it's time we're aware.
It's a small world after all.
Chorus:
It's a small world after all. It's a small world after all.
It's a small world after all. It's a small, small world.

There is just one moon and one golden sun
And a smile means friendship to every one.
Though the mountains divide and the oceans are wide,
It's a small world after all.

How Much Is That Doggie In The Window

How much is that doggie in the window?
The one with the wagely tail.
How much is that doggie in the window?
I do hope that doggie's for sale.
I must take a trip to California
And leave my poor sweetheart alone,
If he has a dog he won't be lonesome,
And the doggie will have a good home.

How much is that doggie in the window?
The one with the wagely tail.
How much is that doggie in the window?
I do hope that doggie's for sale.
I read in the papers there are robbers
With flashlights that shine in the dark:
My love needs a doggie to protect him
And scare them away with one bark.

I don't want a bunny or a kitty,
I don't want a parrot that talks,
I don't want a bowl of little fishies;
He can't take a goldfish for walks.
How much is that doggie in the window?
The one with the waggely tail,
How much is that doggie in the window,
I do hope that doggie's for sale.

Dissolve 2 cans lye in 7 pints cold water. Let cool. Add 10 pounds lukewarm grease.* Stir and add ½ cup liquid Wisk and ½ cup borax (optional). Stir until set.

*Ask at a butcher shop for tallow and cook out your own grease. It makes the whitest soap, but old lard will do too.

SOCIETY AND THE JUNIOR SHOWRING: IRONIC AND NOT-SO-IRONIC!

Have you ever thought about some of the practices that seem so commonplace in the junior showring, but still, some people view them as ridiculous or absurd?

Likewise, there are practices that some people view as commonplace that all of us should view as ridiculous, absurd, and unacceptable, particularly because they are illegal.

I have tried to segregate these ideas, firstly, into those that are "ironic" and those that are "not-so-ironic." The ideas that I have found to be "ironic" are simply that — "ironic." I hope you will find the same irony in the first five examples.

Secondly, the practices that are "not-so-ironic" are illustrations of how rules have been established that should not and cannot be overlooked.

Simply stated, I am not advocating any practice, but I believe the examples warrant your consideration, especially if we are to make progress toward determining practices that are acceptable and unacceptable.

Ironic

Some people perceive it to be ridiculous and absurd to put lambs, steers, and barrows in a "holding pattern" in order to attain a certain weight at a particular time. Yet they are the same people who would encourage young boys to "drop weight" in order to wrestle at a certain weight at a particular time.

Some people perceive the practice to be ridiculous and absurd of applying sheens, sprays, and coloring to the hair and hides of lambs, steers, and barrows in order to make them look more "aesthetically pleasing," but they are the same people who can be found in front of a mirror blowing, curling, fluffing, cutting, coloring-out-the-gray, and styling their hair to make themselves look more "aesthetically pleasing."

Some people perceive the practice to be ridiculous and absurd to exercise lambs, steers, and barrows on a treadmill in order to stay fit, but those are the same people who have a weight bench, stationary bike, and treadmill in one corner of their family room in order to exercise and stay fit.

Some people find unacceptable the showing, display, or exhibition of lambs, steers, and barrows before an individual or panel of judges, soliciting their opinion, and ranking them based on subjective and objective criteria. Likewise, they will sit for hours watching a television broadcast of a beauty pageant or bodybuilding competition.

Some people find objectionable the rewarding of owners and exhibitors of high-ranking animals with premiums and exorbitant prices, but those are the same people who advocate rewarding contestants in a beauty pageant or bodybuilding competition with scholarships, prize money, and substantial commercial endorsements.

Not-So-Ironic

It is unacceptable for Olympic athletes to take steroids as performance enhancers; likewise, administration of unapproved compounds to lambs, steers, and barrows is unacceptable. It is also illegal! Reason: unauthorized extralabel drug use.

It is unacceptable for bodybuilders to be administered or to inject themselves with air, water, oil, or silicone in order to physically alter their natural body shape; likewise, it is unacceptable to inject lambs, steers, and barrows with air, water, oil, silicone, or any other gas, liquid or solid in order to physically alter their natural body shape. It is also illegal! Reason: tampering with the human food supply.

It is unacceptable for a 13-year-old youngster to lie about his age in order to play Little League baseball; likewise, it is unacceptable to lie about birthdates or to falsify information on registration papers of lambs, steers, and barrows. It is also illegal! Reason: misrepresentation and fraud.

It is unacceptable for an adult to provide alcholic beverages to youngsters; likewise, it is unacceptable for adults to knowingly perform any of the three previously mentioned unacceptable acts in conjunction with a junior livestock project. It is also illegal! Reason: contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Isn't it interesting what society and those of us involved with junior livestock projects deem as acceptable and unacceptable? Sometimes it's ironic, other times it's not-so-ironic!

Daniel Named Special Projects Director

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Bryan Daniel of Lubbock, Texas, joined the National Council for Agricultural Education (The Council) as a special projects director on January 1.

He will coordinate The Council's new visioning initiative, titled "Reinventing Agricultural Education for the Year 2020."

According to Rosco Vaughn, executive director for The Council, Daniel brings a wealth of enthusiasm and skill in managing multiple projects to this effort. He and his wife, Tamara, have moved to Alexandria, Va., where he will work from The Council's national headquarter.

"Reinventing Agricultural Education for 2020" is a nationwide visioning project for renewing agricultural education in the public schools. It will be a collaborative, grassroots activity to redefine, broaden and strengthen agricultural education at local, state, regional and national levels. The W.K. Kellogg Foundation, Battle Creek, Mich., provided a $1.49 million grant to help fund this three-year initiative as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

Daniel comes to The Council from Texas Tech University where he served as coordinator for student and alumni programs for the College of Agricultural Sciences and Natural Resources. At Texas Tech, his responsibilities included undergraduate recruitment, retention and placement: alumni programs; media relations and external communications; and undergraduate instruction. Daniel also has served as a graduate teaching assistant and as director of productions for Creative Educational Video.

Daniel gained experience in visioning for higher education programs in agriculture through his involvement with the W.K. Kellogg Foundation's Food Systems Professions Education Initiative at Texas Tech University. He has been closely involved with agricultural education through his position at Texas Tech and has experience working with diverse groups of people.

Daniel holds a bachelor's degree in agricultural communications and a master's degree in agricultural education, both from Texas Tech University.

VEGETABLES AND FRUIT VARIETY SELECTION

Vegetables

This is the time of year when you have evaluated last season's production records and are making plans for this growing season.

As you consider which vegetable varieties to include, I hope you will consider planting disease-resistant selections.

These varieties are usually the same cost as the other types, but even if the price is slightly higher, they potentially can save you this additional cost and more.

With disease-resistant varieties you can reduce your inputs of time and save the cost of spray materials. This is also becoming more important as we lose pesticides due to the high cost of reregistration or because of potential environmental or health concerns.

Another increasingly important concern is the development of pesticide-resistant strains of disease. Resistant varieties help you adjust to these concerns.

Mike Orzolek and Pete Ferretti, vegetable specialists at Penn State University, have recently published their list of recommended vegetable varieties for Pennsylvania. For most types of vegetables there are one or more disease-resistant types listed. I urge you to consider planting these resistant varieties or at least include a small trial planting with this year's crop.

Other varieties are noted that are susceptible to particular diseases. If you have been having a problem with a particular disease on your farm, then perhaps you should not use a susceptible variety in your fields.

The following is a partial listing of recommended varieties. A complete listing can be obtained in the 1996 Commercial Vegetable Production Guide.

Muskmelons:

Fruit

Recently, we held a fireblight fruit school in Lancaster. I learned a great deal about this disease which some growers have described as the greatest problem facing their operation.

The following are some tips from the meeting I hope will be useful in your operation.

Control of fireblight starts during dormant pruning. Extra care should be taken to see that few if any cankers remain in the orchard prior to bloom. Because of the high reproductive ability of the bacteria which causes this disease and the ease of spread and infection, only a few remaining cankers can still provide enough innoculum to devastate an orchard under ideal weather conditions.

During bloom, the bacteria colonize the stigmas of the flowers. The bacteria are carried on the bodies of pollinating insects. For the actual infection of a flower (and subsequent canker development) free water must wash the bacteria from the stigma down into the nectaries of the flower. Infection is rapid under ideal conditions and occurs in a matter of minutes. Pears are frequently infected more severely than apples because they bloom over a longer period of time. Later strikes on developing shoots can almost always be traced back to an infected flower cluster.

Several states now are known to have streptomycin-resistant strains of fireblight. For this reason, preventative sprays of this antibiotic are being discouraged. Instead, you are encouraged to use one of the prediction systems (such as Maryblight) and to only apply sprays when an infection is likely. When sprays are applied, they are most effective when applied from all row middles. The common practice of alternate row middle spraying is not an effective method of control for fireblight.

Removal of blighted shoots later in the growing season is only practical when the trees are not severely infected. Growers should be especially vigilant about controlling fireblight in susceptible cultivars since these trees are more likely to suffer severe damage during ideal weather conditions. Some susceptible varieties are Gala, Fuji, and Braeburn and susceptible rootstocks are Mark, M26 and M9. Rootstock infections frequently result in girdling of the tree and death. I personally have seen trees that were killed when suckers on a susceptible rootstock became infected with fireblight.

Orchard monitoring for use of one of the predictive computer programs does not require a large investment in electronic weather equipment. The components determining the degree of orchard risk are as follows: the presence of open blossoms, cumulative degree hours above 65 F since first bloom, average temperature for the day, occurrence of a wetting event, and incidence of a trauma event (frost, hail, wind). These factors are integrated with information about the orchard (row spacing, varieties and rootstocks used, etc.) to predict the risk of infection. Spray decisions can then be based on this risk.

Unfortunately, we will probably never be able to completely eliminate fireblight from our orchards. However, by using all available control measures including cultural as well as chemical methods the effect of this disease can be minimized.

The keys to successfully controlling fireblight are diligence and thoroughness. Take some time to evaluate the success of last year's fireblight control program and make any necessary improvements for the coming growing season.

Association Contacts Political Officials

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County Poultry Association (LCPA) strives to bring its members many benefits. One of those benefits is keeping local and state officials aware of the concerns of poultry producers.

The government committee includes Dennis Herr, chairman, and committee members Liz Martin and Tim Hartsough, who pursue government officials and tell them about the important role the poultry industry plays in Lancaster County as well as throughout Pennsylvania.

In January, Herr and Hartsough met with Sen. Noah Wenger to discuss nutrient management. Sen. Wenger's roots are in farming and he believes the future will involve change for farmers but with hard work both in the field and out of the field, the future is bright.

Members of the board of LCPA met with Rep. John Barley in January to discuss his views on the industry. Rep. Barley is also well versed on the topic of nutrient management and felt positively about the future and the farmers' ability to comply with the nutrient management guidelines. The right to farm laws were discussed as well as the need for future funding for research and scholarships.

Farming in the 1990s is not the same as it was in the past. The farmer today needs to voice his thoughts backed up with facts. The local government needs to hear your voice. The Lancaster County Poultry Association is eager to help you voice your concerns and work as a unified group to have a strong impact on the issues of today to protect the livelihood of tomorow.

The future of the poultry industry depends on our involvement as a group. Please contact the Association and tells us of your concerns. We need you as members. Your $25 membership fee helps the Association met your growing needs.

Operator Friendly. You'll find the 7753 offers easy operator entry/exit into a roomy cab.

Dependable drive chains that NEVER need adjusting. The "bow tie" design uses prestressed, heavy-duty drive chains in two short continuous loops per side. That means long-life in the most rugged use and NO periodic, time-consuming drive chain adjustments.

Broadstrike Plus Provides Herbicide Option

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Corn farmers now have a wider window of application in a popular broadleaf herbicide. Broadstrike* Plus herbicide from Dow-Elanco has received a post-emerge label for corn up to 24 inches tall. Previously it was labeled only for soil applications.

The extended application window for Broadstrike Plus gives farmers the ability to control broadleaf weeds later in the growing season if weather or other circumstances prevent early application. It provides cost-effective control of a wide spectrum of broadleaf weeds including cocklebur, giant ragweed, common ragweed, velvetleaf, sunflowers, and suppresses Canada thistle.

A combination of two chemistries — flumetsulam and clopyralid (the active ingredient in Stinger* herbicide) — it controls weeds with multiple modes of action, which serves as a resistance-management tool.

Broadstrike Plus is an alternative to atrazine. It can be used in any tillage system and can be tank-mixed with most post-emerge grass-control products for one-pass, grass, and broadleaf control.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS IN POULTRY AND EGG TRADE

James Dunn
Professor Of Ag Economics

Exports of U.S. poultry products increased in 1995, and the outlook is good for further increases in 1996.

The biggest growth has been in broilers. After a 46 percent increase in pounds of broiler meat exported in 1994, exports increased another 30 percent in 1995.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is forecasting an increase of at least 10 percent for 1996 and total exports of more than four billion pounds for the first time. Exports of turkeys and eggs have been strong as well, although not growing as rapidly as broilers.

Broiler exports do especially well because the United States has several major advantages over many of its competitors. First, our production costs are lower than most other broiler producing countries, with the major exception being Brazil. Second, we are the only major player in cut-up birds and the only one willing to sell dark meat for less than the average production costs for the whole birds. This willingness is based on the premium that white meat commands in U.S. markets.

Although the gap has narrowed somewhat in recent years, wholesale breast prices are still about $1 per pound more than leg quarters, making the amount of the total cost of the bird that must be borne by the leg quarters less than if white and dark meat sold for about the same price.

Fortunately, most of our customers have less preference for white meat over dark, and some even prefer the dark meat. Egg exports have recently been affected by lack of export enhancement funds.

The Office of Management and Budget is evaluating whether using the Export Enhancement Program for eggs makes sense, and in the meantime has tied up the funds. Although we are still the lowest cost producer of eggs, most countries have a domestic egg industry that they try to protect, which limit egg exports.

Turkey exports face a different problem. Most countries have no tradition of eating turkey, so the export markets are often small. Many of the exports are in mechanically deboned turkey that is used in making processed meats.

Russia has been an especially active market in the last year for deboned turkey. It is somewhat surprising that most of these sales to Russia are private sales, rather than government sales.

The problems with the Russian economy make hard currency difficult to get and imported products especially expensive as the ruble falls steadily compared to the dollar. Undoubtedly some of these sales involve some type of barter.

The Chinese market is still strong. In December, some problems arose as the Chinese government began enforcing some of its import laws. Much of the poultry imports into China had been coming through Hong Kong and apparently circumventing the rules. This problem is clearing up in that the Hong Kong intermediaries are now paying the tariffs. However, the higher costs are creating some financing problems. Whether this new tariff enforcement will have long-run implications on exports to China is still unclear.

Exports to the Mexican market are down 10-15 percent as the devaluation and the bad economy are combining to reduce effective demand for imported poultry. The devaluation doubled the price of U.S. imports in pesos. Since much of their feed is also imported from the United States, the Mexican industry does not receive as much protection from the devaluation as the currency price changes might suggest. Instead, chicken and egg prices have gone up relative to other products, causing consumers to adjust their market baskets.

South Africa is a small but growing market on the meat side. Although South African producers are trying to raise barriers, the Mandela government is more consumer-oriented than its predecessor. It is less concerned about protecting domestic broiler producers than keeping consumer prices for chicken down.

The Canadian market is still effectively closed to U.S. poultry and eggs, although the United States is exerting considerable pressure on the Canadian government to open this market. Given its proximity to Pennsylvania, an open Canadian market would help our producers considerably.

Canadian producers have said that allowing U.S. producers free access to Canada would decimate their poultry industry. This is prob-

Tractor Safety Training Set

ERIE (Erie Co.)—According to the Fair Labor Standards Act, minors under the age of 16 may work outside of school hours in farm jobs not declared particularly hazardous.

An exception is made for youth 14 and 15 years old who may drive a tractor on a farm that is not owned by their parents provided they successfully complete the necessary tractor safety program.

This safety program allows them to drive a tractor over 20 PTO horsepower and to connect and disconnect farm implements from these tractors. It does not permit them to operate or assist with the operation of any PTO driven implements or other self-propelled machines.

This year, Crawford and Erie County Cooperative Extension Offices will provide the safety training needed to allow youth 14 and 15 years old to drive a tractor on a farm other than that of their parents. Other youth more than 13 years of age who wish to learn more about tractor safety are encouraged to participate, but will not take the test on Saturday.

Sessions will be held in a building adjacent to the Ag-Service Center on Route 19, just south of the intersection of Rts. 97 and 19 (south of Waterford). Classroom instruction will be on Wednesday evening, March 6, from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. and on Thursday evening, March 7, from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

A testing session of scheduled for Saturday morning, March 9, from 9 a.m. to noon. A charge of $5 per participant will be due at the first session on March 6.

The emphasis of this program is the safe use of farm equipment. It is not intended to teach youth how to drive a tractor. However, those youth participating will need to demonstrate their ability to drive a tractor in the testing session on Saturday, March 9.

POULTRY ◆ POINTERS

ably true. The Canadians have not modernized nor have they increased the scale of their operations. Their industry operates through marketing boards under a rigid government production control system. In order to keep prices high, the total quantity supplied is restricted and allocated among farmers using production quotas. Therefore, a producer who wished to modernize would have to buy quota from another farmer.

The dairy situation is comparable. However, the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) guarantees increasing access to both markets.

Overall, the trade prospects are good. Both China and Russia are markets with enormous potential and little chance of developing poultry industries that could effectively satisfy their demands at competitive prices. Our other markets are generally growing and the potential for Mexico and Canada, though still unrealized, is promising.

More exports allow the U.S. industry to grow faster than our population or domestic demand growth.

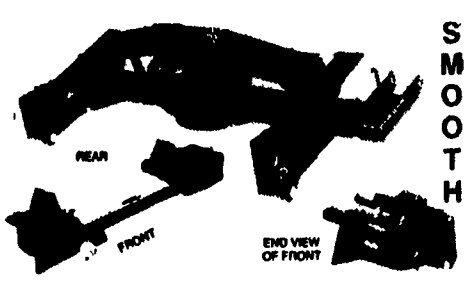
KELDERMAN AIR RIDE

SMOOTH



SMOOTH

Adding a Kelderman Air Ride Conversion system to your present suspension will result in a two stage suspension system. This is not to be confused with adding an Air bag mounted above the axle. Allows adding extra spring leafs to increase load rating and still maintain Air-Ride comfort.
The bolt on plastic package utilizes an air stem mounted in a convenient location to add or remove air from the system.
Optional 12 volt compressor allows changing air pressure setting on the go.
Currently available from front and rear suspension in Dodge Series 250 & 350 trucks. Available soon for Dodge Dakota models.
Also available for some Ford, Chevy and GMC truck models. Special orders available for most motor homes. This option will smooth out the ride on those rough-road fishing/camping trips.

It's not too early to begin planning for storing your valuable feeds for 1996! Quality forages and grains become more important as margins decrease in the dairy and livestock industries.

When you think of "quality" feeds, you need to consider "quality" storage. Farmers all over the East (from Maine to Florida, and West to the Mississippi River), are turning to the poured concrete SOLLENBERGER SILO to protect the quality of their feeds.

Listen to what these farmers from VA say about their switch to a poured concrete silo for their hi-moisture shelled corn storage: "Even during the hottest summer in our memory, the shelled corn from our poured concrete silo has kept its bright yellow color and has not heated. We have the best hi-moisture shelled corn ever."

Signed: Keith Wilson, Paul Wilson, Gerald Garber, Cave View Farms, Inc., Weyers Cave, VA.

"THE BLIZZARD OF '93, THE SEVERE WINTER OF '94. THE SNOWY FALL OF '95, the HOT SUMMER OF '95 and THE BLIZZARD OF '96 all INCREASE YOUR APPRECIATION OF THE CONCRETE TOWER SILO"

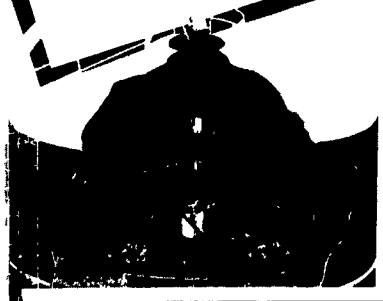
B.U.C.S. OWNER'S REPORT #57

The Word Is Out!

B.U.C.S. Owner's Report
✔ Increased Storage Capacity
✔ Better Feed Quality
✔ Faster Unloading
✔ Lower Maintenance



The Jamesway Big Jim® B.U.C.S.™
is making big news!

Reports are coming in from B.U.C.S. owners everywhere. And they're reporting that their systems are delivering increased storage capacity, higher quality feed, faster unloading and reduced maintenance versus their old systems. Even in silos that had been retired! But don't take our word for it. Here's what your neighbor has to say about their B.U.C.S System!

OWNER'S REPORT #57

"After using our B U C S for one year, we like the way it has worked overall There are no doors to change, and little operating cost We did away with the high maintenance costs and slow discharge rate of the old bottom unloader. B.U C.S discharges feed a lot faster"

Nelson Hershey, Mountville, PA

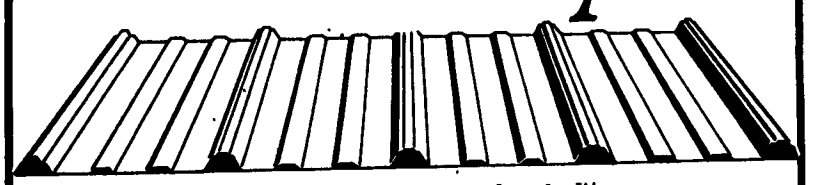
Rural Economy



Cost-efficient Centurydrain™ roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

BUILDING & FACILITIES PLANNING

The Best of the Best

The Wheeling 2 oz. Seal of Quality coating represents the best of the best in the Wheeling Corrugating line of premium galvanized roofing and siding. Every panel that carries the 2 ounce coating assures you are getting the toughest, the most durable, the most corrosion resistant galvanized sheet available in today's marketplace.

2oz. Seal of Quality Wheeling

Genuine Old-Time Quality

Every Wheeling 2 oz sheet is manufactured from heavy gauge steel, topped with an extra thick zinc coating, and formed into profiles that contribute strength and good looks Build with a Wheeling 2 oz sheet and you'll be working with the kind of durability and dependability that's been a standard in the industry for almost 100 years

The Proof is in the Process

The performance behind the Wheeling 2 oz Seal of Quality is possible because of Wheeling's patented Cook Norteman manufacturing process This technology allows a more consistent quality product, and a more uniform coating with unsurpassed zinc adhesion The process takes more handling and more time but the end result is a super premium panel that has its own limited 20 year performance warranty

HIGH TENSILE FENCE...THE FARMER'S BEST INVESTMENT
717-899-7617
BEAVER FENCE SYSTEMS

Darren Peachey, Belleville, PA
"The spring of 1995 was a turning point for our dairy operation as we moved from a high input operation to an intensive grazing system. Intensive Grazing has been everything we hoped it would be. Our cows are healthier and we have less labor per cow The life of our machinery will be longer. All in all it spells higher profits.
The first thing we did was talk to other people who were grazing to get ideas that we could incorporate into our dairy operation. We hired Beaver Fence Systems to build high tensile fence around the entire farm and we use portable fence to divide the interior into paddocks.
Today's dairy economy does not allow us to keep doing things the way we have always done them We need to keep looking for more profitable ways of producing milk and managing our land. Intensive grazing has made our business more profitable."

1996 Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Convention Report

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co.) — The Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Convention was held last weekend under the banner of "Swing Into Spring". The youth who attended had the opportunity to gain some knowledge from seminars on professional photography and dairy bowl competition. Of course, tours and social events added to the enjoyment of the convention. At the awards breakfast outstanding youth were honored for their accomplishments throughout the year.

One of the highlights of the convention is the annual Dairy Bowl contest. This year the Franklin County team won the junior division and Cumberland County won the senior division.

The Pennsylvania Holstein Association recognized three individuals at the Junior Holstein Convention with Achievement Scholarships for their work with Holsteins, community involvement, school activities and leadership abilities. The scholarship is a $1,000 award to be used by the winners to better themselves through some type of educational or promotional program.

The scholarship winners this year are:

• Jennifer Bashore, Lebanon, Lebanon County, daughter of Ricki and Roberta Bashore. Jennifer attends Harrisburg Area Community College majoring in Early Childhood Education.

• Jill Harnish, Christiana, Lancaster County, daughter of Ed and Arlene Harnish, will use her funds for her herd development and promotion.

• Donald Harwood, Shippensburg, Franklin County, son of Robert and Donna Harwood, attends Penn State University, majoring in Dairy and Animal Science.

Distinguished Junior Members

The winners in this division are Jennifer Bashore, daughter of Rick and Boberta Bashore; and Donald Harwood, son of Robert and Donna Harwood.

Editor's note. In addition to their scrapbook listing their activities and involvement in Holstein work, school, and community activities and leadership positions, each youth had to write his or her junior Holstein work story. We thought the winners were so articulate and opened the window into family and Holstein life so well that we reprinted the essays of all six winners along with this report of the Junior Holstein Convention. Read these reports by our Holstein youth and let your heart be warmed with pride as ours was. We have no fear of the future with youth like this growing up into it.

My Story About Family And Holsteins

JENNIFER BASHORE
Senior Division Winner

One could never predict the number of leadership, public speaking, and character building opportunities available by being born into a dairy farm family. I was the second child, but the first daughter of Ricki and Roberta Bashoe. My involvement began with riding tricycle through the barn to presently assisting in decision making that will effect the future of our family farm.

My parents began their farming career working for my grandfather. Bobby, my father's youngest brothers was still on the farm with an interest in farming. In 1981, my parents bought the cows from may grandfather, which changed everyone's life. My mother quit her waitressing job. Managing the cows and important decisions were now my parents responsibility.

With four people working on the farm, there wasn't anything left for my brother and me to do. Basically, our days consisted of playing hide-and-go-seek in the cornshed and splashing through the creek.

A Hereford heifer was my first animal given to me from my grandfather. When she freshened, I sold her and started my savings account. At the age of eight, my parents gave me my first registered Holstein, Gail. At this time, my first responsibility in the barn was post-dipping the cows.

After several times of my grandfather declining my father's offer to buy the farm, we moved on. On March 5, 1987, my parents bought the farm we reside at presently. The farm was on a bankruptcy sale. The barn gutters were filled with manure that had to be shoveled by hand. Almost all the equipment had to be replaced. New stalls, a manure system, and pipeline milkers were installed.

Buying this farm was a wise economical investment for my parents. The farm's condition kept the price low enough to give someone just starting the chance to be successful. We knew from the start that it would take a lot of work to get the farm ready to milk cows. My parents drove back and forth from Lebanon County to Berks County everyday to clean up the mess the last farmer left. On April 25, 1987, we milked our cows for the first time in our new barn.

Moving off my grandfather's farm brough major changes into my brother's and my life. My uncle who previously worked for my father, bought his own herd of cows and began milking on my grandfather's farm the same day we moved. My brother and I began to help milk every day. My father didn't want to hire extra help because he "had a mortgage to pay."

My mother, my sister, Andrea, and myself were responsible for tending the baby calves and feeding the heifers. My father and brother worked the fields and fed the cows. Milking was a family event with all five of us having our own responsibility.

In December 1987, my mother gave birth to the sixth member of our family, Melissa. With my mother being unable to work, the young heifers from birth to one year old became my responsibility.

Presently, one of the major management areas on our farm is the breeding program which is mostly managed by my father. When I'm home I help with the sire selection. We just started the aAa program which helps us in the area of time management and easily determining functional type traits important for each cow. We also look for expected milk production, calving ease, and reliability.

Proper heat detection is an important management practice in our herd. Our cows simply do not show signs of heat standing in their stalls. During the winter, we let the open cows out into the barnyard daily. In the summer, all the cows are out in the pasture at night when most cows show signs of heat.

Cow comfort is a factor that can effect the cows through milk production and the success of breeding. We bed out cows with finely chopped straw mixed with shredded newspaper daily. Cow mattresses were installed into one row of our barn last year. Putting mattresses into the other rows is a possibility in the future.

Another management practice that is beneficial is having herd check every two weeks instead of once a month. Since the cow's estrus cycle runs a three week course, it is easier to manage the cows with a two week herd check.

Our feeding program is taken care of by my parents. We feed a TMR mix of alfalfa haylage, corn silage, high moisture ear corn, supplement and mineral mixture, and roasted soybeans. We offer the TMR mix in the barn 24 hours a day, freechoise. We also feed topdress supplement to high producing cows. Currently, our herd check veterinarian, Charlie Gardner, assists us as a nutritionalist.

Distinguished junior member finalists, junior division, seated, Amanda Myers, and Jesse Bitler, winners. Standing, Jodi Crawford, Jason Turton, Peter Vanco, and Kelsi Wilcox.

Two months before freshening, I dry off our cows with Quartermaster. The dry cows eat the leftover feed from the milking cows, along with a mineral supplement. Our dry cows stay in the barn when there is enough room. They go to the heifer pen if they aren't in the barn. We are currently remodeling half of our heifer barn from stalls to pens for our dry cows.

One of the pens being remodeled will be for our bulls. We raise most bull calves. Some become steers and are raised with the heifers. The purebred bulls are registered and raised in the bull pen to be sold or used for breeding.

The area of record keeping on our farm is all pencil and paper. We don't own a computer. The dates the cows are bred are kept on the breeding chart. The herd check results are in a notebook. The DHIA individual cow records are in a three-ring binder for easy viewing. I just completed individual cow information sheets to be displayed above each cow in the barn.

One of my many responsibilities on the farm is the calf record keeping. I draw off the calves and fill in the necessary information for registration. My mother names the calves. The calves are identified with eartags and records kept in a three-ring binder to be recopied into the official calf record booklet.

With the calves, I'm also responsible for tending the baby calves milk each meal. All the heifers from weaning to one year old are in the heifer barn. I feed them and keep dry bedding in their pens. I also keep track of when they need to be vaccinated and extra teats removed.

In the barn, I help with the milking every morning. As soon as I get home from work in the evening, I help finish milking. On my days off and over the weekends, I work in the barn both meals.

I first became involved in 4-H and Junior Holstein when I received my first registered animal. Showing dairy animals is what first attracted me to 4-H. Over the years, I became involved in the Lebanon County 4-H Dairy Bowl team, and was a member for three years. I served as secretary one year immediately followed by leading as President for my last three years of 4-H.

When I entered ninth grade, I joined the Northern L Lebanon FFA Chapter. I started public speaking my first year. I was a member of the Parlimentary Procedure Team which won the state contest two years and received a Gold Medal Team honor at the national contest. I served as secretary two years and vice-president my senior year. I received the Star Farmer award all four years I was an in-school FFA member.

I show most of my animals at the Lebanon Area Fair in the FFA division. Now that I'm out of 4-H, all my animals will be shown through FFA. Showing animals in the Fair has increased my interest in the breeding program. I can now help decide sire selection for my show animals.

I joined the Berks County Jr. Holstein Club when I received my first animal. After several years of being a member, I became more involved each year. Joining the Dairy Bowl Team has given me a tremendous amount of knowledge that can be used on our farm daily. In 1994, the Lebanon County Dairy Bowl Team placed second in the national contest. Being a member of that team has not only given me knowledge, but has helped build my character through working so closely with people as a team, not as an individual. I'm currently serving as the treasurer for the second year.

My involvement in the 4-H, FFA, and Jr. Holstein Clubs has helped me increase my knowledge of the dairy industry. Leadership, public speaking, team working, and many other skills were given to me through these programs. I joined the 4-H, FFA, and Jr. Holstein Clubs because that's what everyone did. Now, as an older member of the clubs, I realize what they have given to me and I owe tremendous thanks to them.

I served as Lebanon County Dairy Princess in 1993-94. This opportunity gave me chances to meet many new people. Through this, I feel I educated many young people as well as adults about the dairy industry. As part of advertising our product, my parents also painted "Drink Milk" on the end of our barn to be seen from the road.

This summer, I was crowned Lebanon Area Fair Queen. I promoted the fair during its week long running. I will be running for the State Fair Queen title this January. This will be an opportunity to let others around the state learn about our fair.

At Harrisburg Area Community College, Lebanon Campus, I'm about to begin my fourth semester in the Early Childhood Education Program. Living only ten minutes from college, I commute from home. I'm currently working in my career field at Lutheran Social Services at the St. James Childrens' Activity Center.

In December 1996, I will graduate from college with an Associates Degree in Early Childhood Education. I plan to look for a full-time position in my field immediately. Possibly later, I will go back to school for my Bachelor's Degree in Early Childhood Education and minor in Childhood Psychology.

I will continue to work on the farm and stay involved in farming with my animals somehow in the future.

Not all kids have the opportunity to become involved in the activities dairy farm kids have. And as I look back on my life, I value the leadership, public speaking, and character building skills I've acquired. Whatever the future holds, I will never forget the path to the home dairy farm, which has made me who I am today.

My Story About Family And Holsteins

DONALD JAMES HARWOOD

Senior Division Winner

I am the oldest son of Robert and Donna Harwood. The family moved to Pennsylvania when I was four years old. From that time to this, I have been a valuable part of the family dairy operation. My experience started with helping my mother feed calves their milk replacer and as the years passed I received more responsibility until the present when I hold the title of herdsman.

At the age of ten I began to help my father with the afternoon milking. My first experiences were not very pleasant and I recall telling my father I would do anything instead of milking cows the rest of my life. It took several months but I soon became hooked as I recognized each cow when she entered our herringbone milking parlor. This made me special because my father and I were the only two people on our dairy operation who recognized the cows. Therefore, whenever dad had other responsibilities, I was in charge of the milking.

Another key factor, which helped me gain a love for the Holstein cow, was my experiences on the tanbark trail. My first show calf, Harwood Sweet Flora, did not do very well as she was overconditioned but I learned the responsibility of feeding, washing, and walking her. My second calf, Harwood Jonni Hippy, was sired by a young sire at Landmark Genetics. She was second in her class at the Franklin County 4-H round-up and first at the fair that same week. By the end of the week I was confident that the dairy industry was to be a major part of my life.

As my love for the Holstein cow grew I wanted to learn everything possible about the industry. My dad is an excellent teacher. He guided me through DHIA records, sire summaries, pedigrees, and the Red Book. We have worked together making the decisions about matings. Since my father does control the finances, he has the power at this time to veto my suggestions. However, I appreciate the fact that he does listen to my suggestions and often accepts them. My philosophy of breeding has changed over the years and I am now breeding for index. I do like to show and we try to breed several animals each year with the possibility of getting a nice show calf.

The breeding program at Harwood Holsteins is designed around milk, protein, and longevity. As tools to select bulls we use the Red Book and aAa. We use the top bulls from American and Canadian studs. We are waiting to see how the European bulls do before we start using them. Some of our cows are bred for index but we do not breed strictly for high numbers as we also try to improve an individual's type. To monitor our progress in the breeding program, we classify our heard at least once a year.

Our feeding program involves feeding a balanced ration three times a day to the milking ones. Our nutrition consultant balances the ration for eighty pounds of milk. The ration contains alfalfa haylage, corn silage, corn soybeans, mineral mix, and protein supplement. It is a goal of ours to some day feed a TMR to the heifers. At the present time they received hay and corn silage, plus a mineral supplement. A year ago we started prefresh group for our dry cows and since then we have seen a drop in ketosis and displaced abomasums.

The calves are housed in individual hutches and weaned when eating two pounds of calf starter. They are then moved to a Virginia-style heifer shed where they are housed in pens of five to eight animals per pen. They are all vaccinated for Brecellosis. Even though there was an out break of BVD within the state recently, we were not as concerned with the consequences as many farmers, because we had been vaccinating with Horizon IX for several years prior. All heifers are carefully cared for to ensure that we can have them enter the herd at twenty-four months of age. Until recently, all of the heifers were bred artificially. To increase the red factor in our herd, we have raised a red Leader son which we use on certain heifers. However, our high index heifers are still bred AI. We try to use only calving ease sires.

My Story About Family And Holsteins

When I am not away at college, my responsibilities around the farm involved the milking herd. Along with performing milking twice a day. I monitor the cows for mastitis, observe for cows in heat, and mate the cows. There are times when I feed the ration and scrape the free-stall barn. All record-keeping is computerized for ease of paper work. The milk weights are recorded daily so that the individual cows are monitored for illness. Since the entire herd is registered, I help picutre and fill out the registration papers to be sent to the Holstein Association. This past year I have also become more involved with the field work, doing such jobs as discing and chisel plowing.

My parents have encouraged me from the time I started kindergarten to do my best and get the most from my school experiences. In 1991, I was chosen to be a scholar at the Pennsylvania Governor's School for the Agricultural Sciences. This time spent at State College and having attended 4-H State Days helped me to decide to pursue an education beyond high school at The Pennsylvania State University. I am currently a junior majoring in Dairy Science. Two areas of study interest are nutrition and agronomy. I feel the nutrition courses will help me produce milk at a lower cost to gain a larger profit. Along with nutrition comes raising top quality feed and the agronomy classes will guide me through areas which I am unfamiliar.

At the university I have gained more than just book learning. Activities, such as dairy cattle judging, Dairy Science Club, and Alpha Zeta fraternity, have broadened my horizons beyond the two hundred acre farm in Franklin County. In the fall of 1995, I was a member of the PSU Dairy Judging Team. Traveling across country from State College to Springfield, MA and finally Madison, WI was a wonderful experience as I was able to visit numerous farms and observe all of the dairy breeds. My memories of the World Dairy Expo will be cherished for a lifetime. As a member of the Dairy Science Club, I have enjoyed participating in the annual trips over spring break. Touring farms in Arizona and Texas and asking questions of the owners has increased my knowledge of life in other areas of the United States. At the present time, I am chairperson of the Dairy Expo, which is a spring weekend promoting many aspects of the dairy industry on campus and to the community. As chair of the committee, I am learning how to listen and work with my fellow students. All of these experiences have helped me to meet new people and improve my public speaking skills.

All of this I feel will be a great aid to me when I return to the family farm upon graduation and eventually have my own operation. I will be able to be a better people person and listen to other people's point of view. I will also know people whom I could contact to get advice as I am sure I will not have all the answers. I also want to become an active part of my community with participation in either the 4-H or Junior Holstein programs. This will be my way of thanking the leaders of the past by encouraging those of the future.

As a junior member I have attended five state junior conventions and participated in such programs as dairy quiz bowl, milk, fat, and protein awards, 30,000 pound cow award, and Junior Progressive Breeder. This past summer I attended my first national convention in Pittsburgh. The judging schools during the summer were a fun time along with a learning experience. I learned early in my careere that not everyone can do well on the tanbark trail, so I have tried to excel in other areas of the 4-H and Junior Holstein programs. My experiences with dairy quiz bowl and dairy judging have given me confidence which I previously lacked. Currently, I am serving on the state executive committee representing the South Central district.

All of this would not be possible with out the support of my parents and brothers. They have allowed me the opportunity to be away from the farm for extended periods of time and encourage me to see the world beyond the barnyard fence. I would like to thank them and also those people who have given me encouragement along the highway of life.

ERICA DAVIS
Division Winner

In the eastern part of Pennsylvania just travel six miles north of Kutztown and a mile and a half past Plushanski Farms then turn right onto Miller Road and you can find a pretty white farmstead framed by a painted white board fence. Thisis the home of Daview Holsteins and my family. It is a family farm operated by my Dad, Luther; my Mom, Theresa; my younger siblings, Gregory, Aaron, and Jillian; and I. Dairy farming is not just a job to us, but a way of life. Together, we work very hard and this is where My Story of Junior Holstein Work begins.

I have always enjoyed the innocent personality of a newborn calf. So naturally, feeding calves became my first responsibility on our farm. An important job it is, because once you have the calves on the ground, you need to keep them healthy, free of disease, and alive. I give them their choice of colostrum, I switch a newborn to milk replacer. I give them their choice of the bucket, nursing bottle, or for the slow-witted calves, an oral calf feeder. Special attention is given to early detection of calf scours. I begin treatment as soon as they are off milk.

Our seventy cow milking herd usually keeps the eight individual calf pens filled, sometimes to overflowing. Crowded calf pens, limited natural sunlight, and poor ventilation are my most importatn arguments for needing a barn specifically built to house newborns and weaned calves.

With three silos to fill with haylage, cornsilage, and high-moisture shelled corn, planting and harvesting field work often overlaps our milking time. Last spring, Dad was busy planting corn, trying to stay ahead of the rain. I offered to start the evening milking until he came in from the field. Helping with milking was not foreign to me; I just never milked solo before. Nervous about messing up Dad's cows, I managed to complete a normal three hour milking in less than two hours. When Dad finally returned, the cows were headed out to pasture. I expected his apologies for being longer than he had planned and his praise. Instead, he commented, "We'll just see how many cows come in with mastitis tomorrow." I must have done all right, because I am now officially Dad's relief milker!

Cow comfort is an important management concern on Daview Farm. To keep milking cows cooler and under less stress, we have installed a tunnel ventilation system. In the summer months, the stale barn air is exchanged every 30 seconds with fresh air. I also body clip each cow as she freshens to keep her more cool and comfortable. Healthy feet are obtained by semi-annual visits from the hoof trimmer. Also, three to four times a week I apply a disinfectant against strawberry warts on the cows' feet using a small hand held tank sprayer while the animals are being milked in the tie-stall barn.

The herd's most recent classification, which occurred in December, was most meaningful to me. Days before, I worked hard up to the last minute body and udder clipping. The morning of classification, using an electric cow vacuum, I helped to remove dust and loose hair from on their backs. It was interesting to listen to how the classifier scored each animal overall and then further explain their scoring in the five major breakdowns. When he scored my four year old Leadman daughter, MACY, 86 in Frame; 91 in Dairy Character; 86 in Body Capacity; 91 in Foot and Leg; and 92 in Mammary, I knew the point total was high. When he said, "I score this cow EX 90," I let out a breath that I did not realize I was holding!

In our breeding program, our goal is not necessarily meant to breed all cows for a score of Excellent. We consider each individual trait when mating to have more cows scored Very Good and have them milk profitably in the herd. We sometimes purchase well-pedigreed young heifers out of good cow families that were sired by high profile bulls we may not have tried in the herd.

Record keeping is something I have learned to enjoy. Through years of completing detailed 4-H project books, I have learned to appreciate my parents' precise records on herd health, service sires, registration, and feeding. I look at in-depth record keeping as a great way to keep up to date with my animals.

The herd's feeding program is carefully managed. The feed grown on our 155 acre farm is tested and our nutritionist balances a feed ration for the milking cows, dry cows and bred heifers, breeding age and yearling heifers. We feed a Total Mixed Ration to each group according to his recommendations and topdress to the milking cows according to production.

Experiences with Holsteins extends beyond my home farm. After attending the State Junior Convention in 1990 at State College, I realized how much opportunity the Junior Association had to offer. The following year I was studying to participate in the State Dairy Bowl Contest, while helping to plan the convention in our Southeastern Region.

I have competed in Dairy Bowl on both a 4-H and Junior Holstein level. The two most memorable years that I was involved in as a Junior Holstein team member were in 1994 when we traveled to Seattle, Washington, placing second; and in 1995 when we became National Junior Dairy Bowl Champions in Pittsburgh. Through these competitions I have learned what cooperation and determination can accomplish. I have also learned to appreciate the other teams' competition because they have made me work harder in what I do.

In a Chain Calf Contest sponsored by our County Senior Holstein Club I won Hidden-View Aerostar LUNA. Through this, I was given the opportunity to be pictured with LUNA on the front cover of the PA Profiles as part of the Berks County feature. In May, LUNA gave birth to the next link in the Chain Calf Program. LUNA's Horace daughter, LEISL, will be awarded to another Junior Holstein Contestant in January 1996.

As part of my Junior Holstein secretarial duties, I contacted the farmers in the county, asking for a calf to raffle off at our local fair. However, it seemed everyone was having a bull streak! Finally, a farmer offered me a choice of three calves. After comparing the calves and their dams, using my best dairy judging knowledge, I chose a Raider out of an 83 point Ryan.

Junior Holstein involvement along with 4-H, FFA, High School, and Dairy Ambassador activities are togther important elements of my future. They give me opportunity to challenge my leadership and communication skills. Learning to balance these activities with high-school studies and my responsibilities on the farm is not always easy.

As I begin to plan for my future career, I appreciate the advice and support of my parents and friends. Still, I realize the need to develop my own identity and independence. Governor's School, Dairy Princess, and College are some of my future goals. My Junior Holstein Work has helped me test my wings as I prepare as a young eagle would before it leaves its comfortable, secure nest.

DAVID DAY
Intermediate Division Winner
Tri-Day Adeen - All American Fall Calf 1994 Breeder-David A. Day

To me those ten words sum up what breeding Holsteins is about. My main goal in a breeding program of Registered Holsteins program is type. I have no index in my animals and there is very little in the family's animals. I may be the youngest person ever to breed an All-American and am delighted to have done so. While there is a lot of luck involved, I know that more than that goes into receiving an All-American Award. The breeding must be right, a sound heifer raising program enhances the breeding, and the people who work with them all combine to make dreams like this come true.

I am fifteen and am actively involved on my family's 119-acre dairy farm. I am able to perform any activity on the farm except field work. I am tractor deficient, and did not drive one till I was past fourteen. I only learned then, to take better care of my animals. Animals are where my concerns lie. I started in the barn helping my dad milk. Since I was eleven, I have been able to milk our 60 registered Holsteins by myself, many times filling in, in my parents' absence. We recently switched to three times a day milking and I milk at least one milking a day. I can treat a mastitis case, and my parents trust my call on any sick cow. I have the family's best nose for ketosis, and can generally spot a DA before the vet does.

My parents, older brother Matthew and sister Sarah, all work together to aid in good heat detection reporting in several times a day. I am able to feed, but usually that is left to my mother. We feed a 18% single group TMR and are very satisfied. Heifers are fed a concentrate of varying protein depending on age and free choice hay. Show heifers are fed slightly differently and forced to the max. Personal attention from birth on is critical part of our heifer program. It is very labor intensive but with whole family cooperating it works. We feed 2 dry cow and prefresh groups, designed to keep the cow healthy and have her calve in with least stress possible.

When we treat cows if I am home I usually assist the vet. We routinely vaccinate and have very few health problems. Feet are probably our biggest challenge.

My personal herd started with calves that I received as payment for my work on the farm. Several of these have now developed into Excellent cows, one recently completing a 38,000 lb. lactation. Adeen's dam Favorite was purchased for me at state sale at the first convention my family attended in PA with money from sale of another of my animals. Her first year on our farm she refused to carry a calf, and was very close to McDonald's on many occasions. Finally we got her bred, kept her on progesterone and she had a bull calf. With her reproductive problems, we bred her back immediately to a less expensive sire (a Starbuck son named Encore). Adeen was born October 8, late for a fall calf, but I determined I was going to show her anyway. I resolved she would never get dirty, I would pick up piles in her hutch. We placed her in hutch, I waited to pick up piles and soon became frantic since there weren't any. A fleet enema got her going, to the whole family's relief and I no longer worried about every pile. But she did get a lot of special care. A Dunloggin Buff, I named her Adeen for Dunloggin Adeen.

This year before we switched to three time a day milking, I played JV Soccer. Practice and games had us frequently missing milkings. I never realized how much I like the cows till I began to miss milking. At school I am active in soccer, ski club and the Ambassadors club. I carry straight A's and am on the first honor roll.

The breeding program at our farm is geared toward type. We believe we can feed for production as indicated by a rolling herd average of approx. 27,000 from cows sired by predominantly minus bulls. We relied heavily for years on the Red Book for type evaluations but now have started to lean away from that. The lack of consistent results, prompted us to stress more using bulls from good high type cow families. That was my opinion and I have gradually induced a change in my parents. We have used some of the newer Canadian bulls, but are not quite satisfied with the results. We use a lot of Chief Mark blood, some of the bulls we use have lower index, but they are built to milk with the wide butts and good deep ribs. I personally have just started to go back and use some of the good older Canadian bulls. Many with a distinct American influence from Fond Matt etc. The reason these don't appear in my pedigrees at the moment is I just recently got the privilege to have full selection of any bulls I wanted. These bulls used to be excluded but I am now able to use them. This freedom of choice helps keep dairying interesting to me, and I try to put hours of thought and research into finding bulls that sire and transmit what I am looking for. I feel the index system quit identifying superior cows as soon as it was created as it is too easily manipulated. People are often penalized for this view, but it is one of my own so I have no reservations about stating it. It has churned out unsuperior cows for years and continues to do so, changes made are ineffectual and do little good so I will continue to avoid the system.

My involvement in Junior Holstein programs is diverse and varied. I have participated in dairy bowl for six years, winning five state championship (3 Holstein, 2 in 4-H), one national championship, and one runner-up. I have enjoyed this immensely and have learned a heck of a lot and am proud of my accomplishments in this field. I specialize in areas of Holstein History, cow families and pedigrees.

I have shown since before I was six years old and continue to do so. I have had reserve grand at the Farm Show, local shows and numerous first places. I have had junior champion at our local Championship Show and have the opportunity to show at the Grand National in Louisville. This year the dam of my first bred All American was also nominated herself for Junior All American. Although not homebred, I purchased her in the PA State Sale. I have enjoyed developing her and her daughters. She has given me merchandising opportunities. Although I hated to see Adeen leave Tri-Day, selling her to the right people gave her proper exposure and proved a smart business decision.

I have attended the last six Junior Holstein State Conventions and the last four National Junior Holstein Conventions. At the last convention in Pittsburgh I assisted in running one of the Carnival booths. I like Junior conventions because they give me an opportunity to meet people from different areas of Pennsylvania and of the country. I have attended several of the judging schools. I took a break from judging the last year but plan to resume this year and hope to hone my skills, and someday compete in the national contest.

When I was twelve I was the State's Distinguished Junior Boy in the Junior division. In looking back at my book, I listed my goals as breeding an All-American and some excellent cows. Little did I guess the All American would come first, but I have several good prospects for Excellents in the future. I have won two PBR stars and that total should increase as my next generation of animals begins to calve. I have won several of the production awards. This year I will be working on the county calf sale committee. We had this sale last year and are striving to improve quality of consignments and prices this year, and turn the event into more of a success.

Future plans are to form my own cattle sales organization and a pedigree company. Along side, I hope to maintain a small breeding herd to continue to breed show animals to show and sell. My involvement in Junior Holstein work will assist me in this due to contacts made and maintained; a general understanding of farming and merchandising cattle. In preparing for this, my current objective is to continue to do well in high school. I am an avid student of Holstein history, I research cow families and pedigrees for a hobby. This knowledge will tie into my pedigree background. I plan to attend college, and auctioneering school, and intern with a sales organization, to learn the ropes. After that I hope to set out and form my own organization, Sweet Dream Sales Inc., and branch into the pedigree business.

I have enjoyed my involvement in Holstein work and hope to continued to do so. Each small success fuels the fire and makes me set my goals higher. In the future I hope to continue to remain active in Holstein activities, meet many more people and fulfill my career goals.

AMANDA MYERS
Junior Division Winner

Hello, my name is Amanda Lea Myers. I am 12 years old. I live in Pfoutz Valley, Perry County, Pennsylvania with my parents, Earl David and Linda Sue Myers. I have two younger brothers, Darryl and Tyler. My dad has been herdsman at Santee-Acres for Ken and Jane Benner since 1974, so I have always been exposed to Registered Holsteins. I am in seventh grade at Greenwood High School and am active in band, chorus, and Junior FFA. I belong to the Perry County 4-H Dairy Club and serve as secretary for 1995-96.

I was born during fair week in 1983 and I have not missed a 4-H round-up since! Naturally, I chose dairy as my 4-H project. I have been in 4-H for five years. I became a Junior Holstein member in 1991 and my prefix is ALM. I have six Registered Holsteins. Their names are Erin, Satin, Suzanne, Ellie, Silk, and Evonnia. Ellie, Silk, and Evonnia carry my prefix.

My first 4-H dairy project was Santee-Acres Moniter Erin. She was born March 7, 1991. She is totally black, except for her tail, legs, and there is a little spot of white on her face. She is now a five-year-old cow. I showed her at districts once and at our county fair twice. She has given me two heifer calves, one by Tonic, and one by Juniper Park. The Juniper Park daughter is the result of a straw of semen I won for showing the grand champion at our round-up in 1994.

Santee-Acres Highlight Satin has been the most fun to work with, from dragging me across the yard to leading very well in the show ring! She was grand champion at our round-up twice and gave me a March first Mister Bova heifer who won junior champion and the owner breeder award at our round-up in 1995. Both were shown at the 4-H District and State shows. "Satin" was classified Very Good "86" in December.

My two milking cows' production average is 22,370 M, 862 F, 672 P, and my BAA is 106.2.

All of my animals are kept at Santee-Acres. I ride my bike over to the barn at night to help Jane with the evening work. We get the milk house ready and help start milking. Then we go to the calf barn where we first feed the cats, then the calves. I dump water buckets, give calves fresh water, wash the milk buckets, and help bed the calves. Also, I help get Santee-Acres cows ready for our county show and sometimes I help Jane with yard work and house work.

I really enjoy learning about cow families. Pedigrees and bull books interest me. I ask a lot of questions and I am trying to learn how to read pedigree information and how to use it when I mate my cows. I have the most fun naming all the heifer calves born at Santee-Acres. I have them already named and ready for Ken and Jane when they do the registration applications.

I am happy that I have my parents and Ken, Jane, and Irene who are giving me the opportunity to be involved in 4-H and Junior Holstein activities.

JESSE BITLER
Junior Division Winner

Hello! I'm Jesse R. Bitler. My mom and dad are Phoebe and Dave Bitler, and we own Vista Grande Farm near Fleetwood in Berks County. I don't have any brothers or sisters, so I don't have to fight for my favorite chores! I feed hay every day and help all around the farm wherever I am needed.

I have been a Junior Holstein Member ever since I was one and a half years old because my parents realized the membership fee to join the Jr. Association was going to increase from the original $1. I did not get any registered Holsteins of my very own though until I was old enough to join 4-H. That is a story in itself. My parents tried to plan ahead so we would have a number of calves to choose from. Maybe they tried too hard. They flushed a really nice young Leadman daughter bred to Prelude and got four pregnancies due for early March. Guess what! The first calf was a heifer and the mother laid on it and all of the others were bulls. We still had a couple of other good cows to freshen in early March — but they all were bulls. At the end of the month, we had very little to choose from, but my parents felt I should have a calf from our farm rather than buying one. It would be better advertisement. We finally settled on a nice black Southwind calf from a VG-85 Mars Tony daughter. We knew she'd be a good cow someday, but we weren't sure if she'd be stylish enough for the show ring. The first year I showed her she didn't place very high, but the next year when I showed her as a Jr. Yearling she did much better. She was first at the County 4-H Roundup and even got to the PA Jr. Dairy Show.

Well, Vista Grande SW Pepper has had her ups and downs, and I have been along with her. I spoiled her rotten; in fact, I made her lazy. Dad and I chose to breed her to Raider the first time because we thought that would improve her calf's chances to do well in the show ring. But that wasn't going to happen either. Pepper was due to calve on the night of my Dad's surprise 40th birthday party. I was really nervous and kept running out to the barn along with a whole bunch of friends to check on her pretty often, but nothing really happened. My dad checked her before he went to bed, and she wasn't ready yet. He got up at 2 a.m., and she was ready for help. She finally had a beautiful heifer calf, but it was dead! We were really upset, because we couldn't figure out why.

After all that, Pepper has turned into a super milk cow and is classified 84 points at 2 years and 1 month. When we started using BST on our farm, I was helping Dad give the shots and he asked if I wanted Pepper to have one. I said, "Sure." Her production jumped about 10 pounds and has really held on even through the show season. She still had 75 pounds last week for the milk tester, so she is projected around 22,000 pounds of milk. She is currently bred to Wade and is due back within the year. I'm hoping for better luck this time. I have already decided to use the free Landmark service I won at the Berks County Holstein Picnic Judging Contest to breed her to a red bull next year. I'd like to have a red heifer calf.

Since my parents didn't have the calf they really thought I should have when I started 4-H, they gave me a second heifer my second year. Vista Grande Flip Pearl was born in December from a VG cow that had made 31,000 pounds of milk as a 2-year-old. This calf seemed to have the style to do well in the show ring and the genetics to be a good brood cow for my future herd.

Pearl has done quite well in the show ring, and I have had lots of fun showing her at the local fairs as well as the PA Jr. Dairy Show. I was really happy when she was Reserve Jr. Champion at the Kutztown Fair this year and the Jr. Champion at the Oley Fair for the second year in a row.

The brood cow part of her hasn't worked out yet. Dad and I had lots of chances to pick bulls to breed her to because she kept coming back in heat. The vet checked her, and we even had a technician breed her, but she still didn't get bred. I wanted Dad to put her out with one of the purebred bulls we raise to sell, but he didn't think we should. Our nutritionist suggested we implant an embryo in her. First, we were going to flush her and implant her with her own egg, but it was getting too late to do that and have her fresh in time to show next year. My parents had a couple of embryos frozen from a good cow they had flushed several years ago, and we decided to implant one of them the week before the PA Jr. Dairy Show. On Saturday, the vet checked Pearl at 40 days, and he is 98% sure she is pregnant. She'll have to be rechecked. I guess I won't be the owner/breeder, but at least she is bred and should be in good shape for next year's show season.

So you see, my beginning at breeding registered Holsteins hasn't been real smooth. I have had lots of good times working with my animals though, and I think they're worth a million dollars, even if Mom and Dad said I couldn't put that down as their realistic value.

Since my parents are active in the state Holstein Association and have both served as delegates to the National Holstein Conventions over the years, I have had the chance to attend the last three National Jr. Holstein Conventions. That was fun. This year I even got to help because Mom and Dad were Chair-couple of the National Jr. Convention in Pittsburgh. I had to run after things for them, but I liked it. I want to go to Texas next year. Mom says that is when Pearl is due to calve now, so we'll have to wait and see.

I am not sure where my Jr. Holstein work will take me. Right now, I only own two registered Holsteins, but I hope to double my herd in 1996.

National FFA Officers Visit Agribusiness Leaders

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — The National FFA Officers have experienced firsthand the global marketplace they and their fellow agriculture students have been studying. They met with agribusiness and government leaders in Japan, the largest buyer of American agricultural exports.

This international experience is an important part of the national officers' preparation to represent the National FFA Organization during their year of service. It helps them understand international trade and global agribusiness issues and gives them the opportunity to share the FFA's focus and activities with Japanese leaders.

This is the 17th annual National FFA Officer International Experience Program in Japan. The officers left Jan. 27 and returned Feb. 9.

"The trip is invaluable for our officers and, through them, our members," said Larry D. Case, national FFA adviser and coordinator of agricultural and rural education, U.S. Department of Education. "The concept of a global marketplace and international trade can be difficult to communicate to high school students. When they experience it themselves, though, it seems much more relevant. The officers come home with a better understanding of the changing opportunities in agriculture, and share their insights with members across the country."

During their visit, the officers met with U.S. Embassy officials for a briefing on agricultural trade; toured a large fish, vegetable, and floral marketing facility; and visited a horticultural high school. They also toured the facilities of Mitsui & Co. Ltd. Tokyo, as well as a number of agricultural businesses and historical landmarks in Kyota and Tokyo.

The officers met with their Japanese counterparts — members of the Future Farmers of Japan (FFJ) — to further extend contacts between the next generation of agricultural leaders for both countries. Each officer stayed with a Japanese host family for one weekend to learn more about the culture and traditions of one of the United States' most important trading partners.

The international program was sponsored by Mitsui Grain Corporation and Mitsui & Co. Ltd. Tokyo as a special project of the National FFA Foundation, Inc. Mitsui Grain Corporation is based in Chicago, Ill. The headquarters for its parent company, Mitsui & Co. Ltd., are in Tokyo.

"As our members complete their education and enter an increasingly global agricultural marketplace, chances are good that they will conduct international business during their careers," said Seth Derner, national FFA president. "We hope our trip will enable us to communicate key world trade issues and international agricultural concerns with our members."

Grazing Conference Set

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The 1996 Pennsylvania Grazing Conference, sponsored by the Grazing Research and Education Center in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, will be held Wednesday, March 6 and Thursday, March 7 at The Embers in Carlisle.

This will be the second Pennsylvania Grazing Conference following a successful conference in 1995. The purpose for the conference is to present useful and current information to a wide range of people involved in grazing.

Featured speaker for his year's conference will be Dave Forgey, a highly successful and recognized grazier from Indiana. Other speakers from outside Pennsylvania are Jim Green, agronomist from North Carolina, and Danny Fox, beef nutrition and management specialist from Cornell.

Wednesday's schedule features two presenattions by Forgey. Other sessions include principles of grazing management, the "nuts and bolts" of watering, fencing, and paddock layout, and grazing behavior of ruminants.

Thursday morning's program will focus on raising dairy heifers and beef and fine-tuning controlled grazing. Workshop sessions will include: milking systems for grazing, calf raising on pastures, grazing during the summer, and leader/follower groups.

SHOW-EASE FREE STALL

All Show-Ease free stalls are now made from Hot Dipped Galvanized pipe with the same weight as Schedule 40 pipe only 30% stronger. We think these are the strongest on the market. The wide front free stall gives the cow extra room to get up.

Wide front free stalls are generally 6' long with a 32" opening in front. Recommended height is approximately 42" above where the cow stands.

JUMBO BALES

One Ton Size

A Case International 8580 Large Rectangular Baler Makes JUMBO bales -up to 2,000 pounds

It compresses hay equivalent to about 40 conventional bales into a single high-density package. The high-end capacity and performance of the 8580 means you can push these big bales through the machine all day — every day. That's a lot of hay!

And it's quality hay, too. The center-line design handles the crop gently to preserve nutritious leaves. The bales are uniformly shaped for efficient handling and shipping.

The 8580 also has a full list of standard features. Low-profile pickup, pre-packer chamber, massive gearbox, heavy-duty components throughout, electronic monitoring, double-tie knotters and low maintenance. And it's simple to operate.

The Case International 8580 is a JUMBO value too.

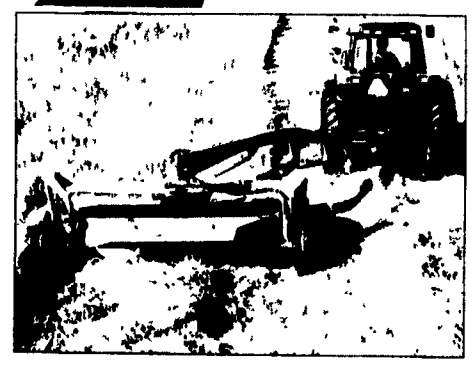
CASE IH

Proven & Tested To Customer Satisfaction.



The Case International 8312 disc mower conditioner just keeps on cutting – no matter what it encounters. Tangled undergrowth, rodent mounds, ant hills or heavy hay are no match for the heat-treated high-speed rotary discs at the heart of the 8312.

A center pivot tongue lets you cut a full 12-foot swath in either direction and maneuver around obstacles. Lay down a quick-drying swath or fluffy windrow and, depending on your crop, conditioning rolls can be quickly adjusted for optimum drying.

If continuous cutting with a center pivot machine is important to you, stop in and see the Case International 8312.

KRAUSE PLOW CORPORATION has always been THE LEADER in building CONSERVATION TILLAGE systems designed to prepare a level seedbed in all types of soils and field conditions...

- From Krause you've always expected a superior job of cutting & finishing to produce top crop yields.
- Now that the Government has dictated you increase your crop residue, KRAUSE has responded with conservation blades that will increase your crop residue over older discs.
- And you still get engineered dependability just like you always have with KRAUSE.

GLEANER® FLEXIBLE HEADERS. THE NATURAL FIRST STEP IN OUR NATURAL FLOW SYSTEM.

Our Natural Flow Harvesting System provides that the straightest path for your crop is a straight line, and the best place to start it is with our Model 500 flexible headers. Recently redesigned with more than two dozen improvements, they offer better performance, more capacity and less maintenance than ever before. Available for either standard mechanical or electronically activated, our new fore and aft reel adjustment system adjusts to changing crop height and density in a flash. And the shortening of the distance between the cutterbar and auger will help ensure better crop feeding. There are 5 sizes in the Model 500 line, from 15 feet to the new 25 and 30 footers. Your GLEANER dealer has them all. Plus all the bells you need to go with GLEANER's Natural Flow System. From start to finish.

MF 3120T 2/4WD Tractor

MASSEY-FERGUSON

Open platform model now available.
Open platform configuration offers an unobstructed view of work areas to the front, sides and front axle area. Semi-flat floor deck provides plenty of leg room both under the pedals and between the seat and dash column. Deluxe spring suspension seat is vinyl covered to resist the elements. Seat adjusts six different ways to suit operator's needs. FOPS sun shade protecting the operator from the sun's heat and falling material, is standard equipment on the open platform model 3120T. Grab handles and nonskid steps aid in getting on and off the tractor.

Cab model provides comfort and convenience.
Quiet, comfortable cab holds sound levels to the mid-70 dBA range, among the quietest in the industry. Two-door cab entry ensures easy access from either side. Select from a pneumatic swivel seat or a wide, fixed pneumatic seat, to provide you with the comfort demanded by farmers spending long hours in the field.
